Premier To Study Ways To Further Canada War Effort

By HAROLD FAIR

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King told a press conference here today he came to Britain to determine how Canada's war effort could be made more effective.

Speaking in the large conference hall of the Ministry of Information, where representatives of the Canadian, British and American press were gathered, he listed three other reasons for his trans-Atlantic flight to Britain.

1—To emphasize Canada's determination to be at Britain's side to the end of the struggle and to the utmost of her effort.

2—To renew a friendship with Prime Minister Churchill which has existed since 1907.

3—To tell the British people of Canada's admiration for their indomitable courage.

The Prime Minister spoke after an introduction by Brendan Bracken, the Minister of Information who said "one of the greatest honors given to the Ministry" was to bring Mr. King in touch with the press of London. The minister said he could conceive of nothing better than that Mr. King and President Roosevelt should have the opportunity of meeting Prime Minister Churchill "at the time of the most frightful world crisis."

Mr. King who spoke under the glare of powerful lights while movie cameras ground and still cameras clicked, first outlined the reasons for his trip to Britain and then answered questions.

He said there never had been the slightest hesitation in Canada to appreciate the full implications of the war. He said his visit gave him an opportunity to discuss with Mr. Churchill matters of common

ADVICES PIERCING CENSORSHIP INDICATE

Balkans Fear New Nazi Thrust

By HUGO SPECK

ISTANBUL, Aug. 21. — (BUP) — Reliable advices coming today through the blanket of Nazi censorship in the Balkans told of a series of important developments that indicated grave fear of a new German thrust in the southeast despite serious setbacks in the war against Russia.

The developments, as reported by travellers arriving from Rumania, included:

1—Germany is assembling new armed forces, including aviation, in Bulgaria indicating that Adolf Hitler still is planning to move on the near east through Turkey (by force if necessary) in co-ordination with the Nazi offensive into south Russia and probably depending on developments along the eastern front. At least 200,000 German troops were reported near the Turkish border.

UPRISING POSSIBLE

2—Axis war vessels, including half a dozen German-built Rumanian submarines, have been moved to the Black sea area for use against the Red fleet.

3—Rumanian sources believed that any German attack on Turkey would cause a serious uprising against Germany in the Balkans if the Turks resisted seriously. Great opposition to the Nazis was reported in Bulgaria and Rumania, with the Rumanians feeling they were victims of a Germanic plot.

5—Hospital trains from the eastern front were "pouring scores of thousands of German wounded" into Rumanian hospitals and so many school buildings have been taken over for the wounded that the schools probably will not be permitted to reopen this autumn.

6—All Jews in Bucharest between 18 and 50 were ordered to report to the war department for labor assignments.

REPORT RESISTANCE

(An unconfirmed report published at Stockholm said that Italy was attempting to send troops into Croatia and had met resistance.)

Travelers said that there were many reports that Jews numbering in the thousands had been killed at such centres as Jassy after the German troops took over in Rumania.

By DANA SCHMIDT

ANKARA, Turkey, Aug. 21.—(BUP)—Authentic information that fresh German troops and air force units have arrived in Bulgaria caused sudden anxiety here today over the possibility that Germany intended to demand facilities for passage of troops across Turkey and was prepared to move them by force if necessary.

News of the troop arrivals came simultaneously with reports of intensified Italian activity in

French Aides Quit Posts In Protest

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Aug. 21—(BUP)—The French charge d'affaires and the secretary of the French legation in San Jose have resigned in protest against the policies of the Vichy government.

Following their resignation, both announced their intention of joining the Free France movement of General Charles de Gaulle.

However, both men will remain in San Jose as representatives of General de Gaulle.

The British planes set out in two big waves.

Iran's Oral Reply Is Not Acceptable

LONDON, Aug. 21—(CP)—An authoritative source said today an oral reply made by Iran officials to a recent joint Anglo-Russian complaint about the number of German technicians in that country had not been received favorably here.

The Iran government's written reply to a British note delivered last Saturday outlining a plan to replace Germans employed in key communications industries is expected shortly, it was said.

The source said he had no knowledge of reports Germany had assured Iran of support in event of Anglo-Russian intervention.

Canadian Prime Minister Flies To Great Britain

The Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King shakes hands with Air Marshal Sir Frederick W. Bowhill, Air Officer Commanding in Chief of the R.A.F. Ferry Command, just before he boarded the plane which flew him to Great Britain. Hon. C. D. Howe, Canadian Minister of Munitions and Supply, was on hand to bid farewell to the Prime Minister as he prepared to board the plane. The two are here shown, right, above, chatting at the airport a few minutes before take off.

No Pessimism In Ranks Of Russia

MOSCOW, Aug. 21.—(CP)—S. A. Lozovsky, Soviet official press spokesman, conceded tonight that the Germans have won considerable successes in the first two months of the Russian campaign but declared "there is no alarm or pessimism in our ranks."

Compared with European nations, the foreign visa commissar acknowledged, the German-occupied areas of Russia are large.

But compared with Russia's vastness, he declared, only a small area has been taken and one "without provisions, containing only wrecked cities, ruined factories ... guerilla warfare and local hatred. . . .

"Even Hitler and his advisers understand that the war in the east has only begun," Lozovsky said.

"We know the enemy strength and potentialities. There is no alarm or pessimism in our ranks. On the contrary, the Red Army and German aggressor seats south and north compel us to close ranks still tighter."

Lozovsky declared Germany would be beaten "no matter how many months or years we have to fight" and added that "it couldn't occur even to a crazy Hitlerite that the German army is capable of smashing the U.S.S.R. Great Britain and then the United States."

Jap Line Lifts Ban On U.S. Passengers

TOKYO, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The Nippon Yusen Kaisha Line—apparently under foreign office pressure—suddenly announced tonight it had reservations for 26 United States embassy and consular officials aboard the liner Tatsuta Maru, scheduled to sail Aug. 28 for Shanghai.

At Shanghai, most of the Americans expected to obtain trans-Pacific passage home aboard a United States transport.

Because of the unfavorable "hostage" publicity arising from the inability of United States nationals to obtain passage from Japan, the foreign office was believed to have exerted pressure.

R.A.F. Drops Low To Hit Steel Mill

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(CP)—Royal Air Force bombers swooped as low as 50 feet today to bomb the rolling mill and other sections of the Ijmuiden iron and steel works in the Netherlands, the air ministry announced, while many hundreds of fighter planes swept over Holland and northern France.

A cannon shell from one fighter hit the magazine of a German motor torpedo boat and blew the vessel to bits, the report said.

Interpreting War News

ON THE other side of the world from the Russo-German fighting front, an obscure United States tanker headed for the Soviet far eastern port of Vladivostok is sailing dimly nearer the danger zone of a possible new war explosion.

The ship, first of a number which Harold Ickes, the U.S. oil co-ordinator, said would take aviation gasoline to Russia, must run through the screen of islands which comprise Japan in order to reach the Soviet Pacific gateway.

Complaining of encirclement in the South Pacific, Tokyo now is viewing with apparently mounting concern the prospect that in the north, also, Japan's eastern forces will be thus strengthened.

"NEUTRALITY ZONE"

Amid mutterings that American and British preparations to aid Russia involve a challenge to Japan, the cabinet is reported considering creation of a neutrality zone to "keep the war out of the north

Reserve Soldiers Fined In Saskatoon

SASKATOON, Aug. 21—(CP)—Nine young men, members of the Second Battalion, Saskatoon Light Infantry, pleaded guilty in police court today for failing to appear for parade when ordered to do so by their commanding officer and were each fined $5 and costs of $2.50 or 10 days imprisonment.

Nazi Government Orders Closing Cuban Consulates

BERLIN, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The German government announced today it had ordered closing of Cuban consulates in the Reich effective Sept. 15.

Close Consulates

FRENCH, NAZIS STAGE ROUNDUP

6,000 'Jews' Arrested In Nazi-Occupied Paris

VICHY, France, Aug. 21.—(AP) — French and German police arrested 6,000 "Jews" in Paris today in a roundup of persons suspected of opposing German troops.

The arrests were made in a simple amendment of Paris, but the movement started to spread to other sections of the city. Even in unoccupied France police were stopping travellers on roads and examining their papers but there were no arrests.

Jean Barthelot, secretary for communications, tonight warned against sabotage of German freight trains in the occupied zone and told railway workers: "I resolve, whatever it costs me, to strike at certain ones among you."

He said that under the armistice terms the right of way in the occupied zone is granted to German trains.

At the same time it was learned two men had been executed by a firing squad for alleged participation in a Communist manifestation against German occupation authorities. They were condemned, presumably by a Nazi court martial for "activity in favor of the enemy," it was said.

Both Nazi and French police were reported to have taken part in the arrests.

All approaches to each of the four quarters comprising the working

Ilsley Will Give Address Here Sept. 3

Hon J. L. Ilsley, minister of finance, has accepted an invitation from the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce to address a luncheon meeting of the Chamber and Men's Canadian Club at the Macdonald at noon Wednesday, September 3.

A telegram of acceptance was received by Secretary-Manager John Blue of the Edmonton trade body on Thursday. Subject of Mr. Ilsley's address has not yet been announced.

U.S. Orders Cut In Auto Output

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—(AP)—The office of production management announced today that passenger car production in the United States will be curtailed 26½ per cent, during August, September and October.

The curtailment will be progressively greater in subsequent months, officials said, with the expectancy of a 50 per cent. curtailment for the model year ending July 31, 1942.

A substantial increase must be made in motor truck production officials said, in order to meet vital transportation and military needs.

Britain Is Using New Air Weapon

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 21.—(BUP) —Swedish reports today say that Britain is using a new-type weapon against German dive bombers. Reports reaching the paper Dagens Nyheter from Berlin say that the British are firing rockets trailing long wires at attacking Nazi planes. The idea of the device—this paper says—is to wrap the aircraft up in a tangle of wire, fouling its controls. One plane was struck eight times by rockets while out over the Atlantic. It barely reached its German base.

No Change In Wheat Policy Ottawa Says

By T. B. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—Federal wheat policy will not be changed but will adhere to the lines outlined last spring, it was learned here today. This is understood to be the government's decision after consideration of recent requests for $1 wheat and other submissions from the West.

A Saskatchewan Wheat Pool delegation on August 9 asked for reconsideration of minimum price, freezing of the carryover. The government's policy is to maintain the guaranteed price at 70 cents, accept 230,000,000 bushels of new crop wheat, and provide when acreage reduction bonuses. No considerations advanced so far have been deemed sufficient to warrant changes in policy at the present stage.

At the present stage, market prices in the West are running three or four cents higher than the pegs and wheat is being sold at the open market. The crop is relatively short.

DRAW ON SURPLUS

The proposal that the carryover of 430,000,000 bushels be "frozen," as viewed here, would involve a fundamental change that might vitiate the whole policy. If deliveries from the relatively light 1941 crop are insufficient to cover the wheat board's purchases of 230,000,000 bushels, the board will draw on the surplus in store. But if the surplus is regarded as frozen and inaccessible for current needs, the short crop would result in a probable rise in price.

The figure of 230,000,000 bushels represents an estimate of 50,000,000 for home and 180,000,000 for export use. Naturally an artificial restriction whereby the market price advanced substantially would mean either a sharp increase in the price required from Britain, Canada's main export buyer, or else a substantial loss on the wheat board account, which would be buying high and selling low to Britain.

A further aspect is that the government is paying $35,000,000 as acreage reduction bonus, designed to bring production into line with the year's requirement of 230,000,000 bushels. If action is undertaken to push up the price by freezing the surplus, farmers who have ploughed the policy of acreage curtailment would be the chief beneficiaries. The government therefore will continue to play ball with farmers who recognized the serious situation created by the surplus and honestly tried to cut down production this year.

The result is that the official policy announced last spring stands without change.

Labor Blocks Menzies Visit To Gt. Britain

CANBERRA, Aug. 21.—(CP)—The Australian Labor Party formally voted today against sending Prime Minister Robert Menzies to London for conferences with the war cabinet on account of the tension in the Far East.

It was believed there was little chance that Mr. Menzies would leave since he has said he would go only if Australian political leaders were unanimous on the question.

John Curtin, Labor Party leader, announced that his party was against the Prime Minister taking the trip at this critical time.

SYDNEY, Aug. 21. — (CP) — Political observers were convinced Wednesday night that Prime Minister Robert Menzies will find it impossible to travel to London for consultation with British leaders over the Far East crisis and retain his position as head of the Australian government.

The Prime Minister gave the House of Representatives a full report on Japan's drive to the south at a secret session in Canberra Wednesday. At an earlier public sitting, he said he would not go to

Moscow Reports Nazi Government To Leave Berlin

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN

Copyright, 1941, By The Chicago Daily News, Inc. and The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(CDN)—Some experts here still believe that Russia will hold out until winter comes but they do not believe, and never have believed, that it is a dead certainty.

The current policy of the western democracies, they feel, should be based on the idea that Russia probably can escape annihilation if it receives unstinted assistance from Great Britain and the United States.

Any definite assumption that the German campaign is going to fail, they believe, might prove disastrous either by preventing them from giving the Russians what they require or, if things go wrong, by leaving Britain and the United States unprepared for the consequences of a smashing German victory in the east.

It is generally recognized by such experts that destruction of Russian offensive power, even though it did not mean actual capitulation of the Soviet government, would pave the way for further heavy operations in western Europe and the middle east. Thus they feel that London and Washington should take every possible measure to prevent such an eventuality and at the same time be fully prepared to meet it when it comes.

There are already some indications that neither the British nor the Americans share this view com-

Ask People To Defend Home City

MOSCOW, Aug. 21.—(AP) —Leningrad was proclaimed under "direct threat of attack" by the Red army northwest command today as Marshal Klementi Voroshilov called on the people to rise in arms and defend their city to the death.

(If Leningrad is defended, the German radio asserted, it will suffer the fate of Warsaw, Poland's capital, which was pounded for weeks by the air force and Nazi siege guns at its gates before the Poles surrendered it.)

Voroshilov acknowledged "dread danger" to the city but expressed confidence the defenses would hold, declaring Russia's second city and Czarist capital "never was and never will be in the hands of the enemy."

ASK GUERILLA AID

The population was exhorted to train new detachments of workers for the people's army to support this regular army.

Leningrad has about 25 per cent of the Soviet working class. It was defended successfully by Joseph Stalin in 1919 when it was threatened during the Civil War.

The Soviet Information Bureau said fighting had raged through the night in the Novgorod region, about 100 miles south of Leningrad, as well as in the Gomel sector.

F.D.R. Reports To Congress On Historic Meet

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—(AP) —President Roosevelt, reporting to the United States Congress on his meeting at sea with Prime Minister Churchill, said today the declaration of principles agreed upon there was so clear cut that it would be difficult to oppose "without automatically admitting a willingness to accept compromise" with Nazism.

These principles, the President added in a brief special message, also would be hard to oppose without admitting a willingness to "agree to world peace which would give to Nazism domination over large numbers of conquered nations."

"Inevitably," Mr. Roosevelt asserted, "such a peace would be a gift to Nazism to take breath—armed breath—for a second war to extend the control over Europe and

August Call-Up To Affect 4,000

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—(CP)—The August call-up of men for military training under the National Resources Mobilization Act will bring 4,000 young men into army training centres, the same number called last month, it was learned at the department of national war services today.

The total will be made up of 1,300 men who received 30 days' military training last year, and 2,700 men who will don the uniform for the first time. They are due to report at training centres Aug. 28.

"FLYING WING" ARRIVES IN FREE FRENCH AFRICA

Experimental Plane Of Daring Design Given Trial

Strange Craft Becomes Flagship Of De Gaullist Air Arm In Jungle Area

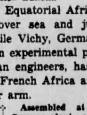

George Weller, whose assignment in the Balkans hurled him into the thick of the Greco-Axis war, who exclusively reported the Nazi occupation of Salonika and, upon his subsequent expulsion from occupied countries, filed uncensored articles on conditions in Axis-dominated Greece, has just arrived in French Equatorial Africa.

As one of a select few correspondents privileged to operate in that last pro-allied outpost of the French Empire, Mr. Weller will cover the activities of Free French forces of Gen. Charles de Gaulle and rove to other points of Africa which, with crucial westernmost Dakar, figures so prominently in the arena of World War II. Herewith is Mr. Weller's first story, radioed from Brazzaville.—EDITOR.

By GEORGE WELLER
Copyright, 1941, by The Chicago Daily News, Inc., and
The Edmonton Bulletin

BRAZZAVILLE, French Equatorial Africa, Aug. 21.—(CDN)—Flying 6,500 miles over sea and jungle through territory frequented by hostile Vichy, German and Italian planes, the "Flying Wing," an experimental plane of daring design developed by American engineers, has arrived here safely in the capital of Free French Africa and become the flagship of the DeGaullist air arm.

Assembled at the Cunliffe-Owens plant at Southampton, England, and piloted to the Congo by the transatlantic pioneer, Jim Mollison, the completely unarmed plane arrived with a crew of four after evading Axis-Vichy forces by adroit night flying.

George Weller

The "Flying Wing" will be used to transport officers and military mail to distant posts in the vast and little known wilderness stretching from the Congo watershed to the edge of the Libyan desert.

Col. Pierre Caretlier, commander of the African air force, invited the writer as the only civilian to join his staff in the first test flight over the Congo rapids and jungle. With flames from smoking grass fires reddening the jungle clearings and smoke ascending thousands of feet high, we sat in a large cabin of room recupying the body of the wing.

EXCLUSIVE

ARRANGED IN ROWS

We were arranged in two rows, like people in a movie theatre, with the pilots ahead and above in a position corresponding to a movie screen. The roof of the wing was low and slanted, like an attic. The radio operator and navigator sat on the right and left, while two rows of green canvas seats running lengthwise with the wing between the two 870-horsepower Perseus engines, were occupied by 10 de Gaullist officers wearing shorts and sun helmets.

The "Flying Wing" first took the staff party over the White-Toothed rapids below the twin cities of Brazzaville and Leopoldville (Belgian Congo), whose gnawing rocks and 10-foot waves make the Congo among the most dangerous, but most easily controlled rivers in the world. Tiny dugout canoes were scattered like handfuls of cigars upon the narrow village beaches with arrowhead-shaped islands, characteristic of the Congo, sheltering them.

After following the shoreline of an island in midstream Congo bigger than Manhattan, the "Fly-ing Wing" turned and carried the de Gaullist staff over Leopoldville, capital of free Belgium in Africa. In military encampments native soldiers rehearsing dances stopped thumping their drums to peer upward at the strangely-shaped, double-ruddered plane with a truncated tail. It was undoubtedly the strangest "mouspepe"—the native word for both hawk and airplane—they had ever seen.

At the flight's conclusion, Colonel Caretlier told this correspondent:

"We are very glad to have this unusual American-built aerial plane to augment our forces, but we would appreciate it more if it were possible for the United States to release other planes of ordinary design for transport use.

NEED IT PLANES

"What we must have soon is about 12 commercial planes like the Douglas or Lockheed, to maintain normal military liaison for privileging our strategically invaluable belt of operations connecting the west coast of Africa with the Royal Air Force in the Middle East is being supplied with a steady stream of American aircraft flowing eastward along the equatorial line between Vichy's Africa and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, the great area of tropical jungle which we are guarding earnestly needs more planes which we hope America will be able to send to Free France as soon as possible."

class 11th Arrondissement were blocked off and subway stations closed to prevent any escape during the five-hour clean-up.

French and German police then swept through the district, stopping all on the streets, conducting house to house searches and scanning identity papers.

Those arrested included everybody who could not show he was an Aryan. Those arrested were from about 17 to 50 years of age.

HELD FOR PROBING

Meanwhile notices appeared on all subway stations outside the district saying trains would not stop at the 11th Arrondissement station, which is at the Place de la Republic.

The Paris newspaper Les Nouveaux Temps said those arrested were taken in buses to concentration centres at Darney where, it was reported in Vichy, they were being held for investigation.

The surprise move followed unrest and firing in the streets as well as public admissions by French and Nazi authorities that sabotage and subversive activities in the conquered capital were reaching dangerous proportions.

Quintuplets May Live With Family

TORONTO, Aug. 21.—(CP)—Hon. Harry Nixon, acting Ontario minister of education, said today the Dionne quintuplets should live with their parents, brothers and sisters because such an arrangement would "be a more normal life for them."

Mr. Nixon was endorsing a suggestion made by Rev. Francis X. Talbot who said in an article in "America", Catholic weekly, that the quints, now that they are seven years old, should live the normal life of other children.

Queen's Park observers said action may be taken by the Ontario government in suggesting to the quintuplets' board of guardians that this step be taken in the near future.

Radio Recruits Being Sought For Air Force

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—(CP)—Royal Canadian Air Force headquarters issued its second appeal today for recruits to take training as radio mechanics.

The announcement said recruiting officers across Canada are prepared to accept applications immediately. New classes of students would start soon at a number of Canadian universities.

"Radio experience is not essential, but recruits must have an education equivalent to high school matriculation and be within the age limit of 18 to 40, the air ministry statement said.

Training courses would encompass 16 weeks of "hard study" at University, preceded by four weeks of drill, discipline and air force law at the manning depots. Radio mechanics who answered the last recruiting call now were completing their University courses.

Resources of many Canadian and American scientists have been turned to development of a secret radio device which has been invented to nullify the threat of night bombing by the Luftwaffe," the statement added. "Now that it has become a reality, the Royal Canadian Air Force has been called upon to train men to operate the device.

"Men recruited now will go to augment other Canadians who have received their training in the Dominion and are overseas actively engaged in their important work."

afternoon shortly after a previous attacking force had returned.

SHIPPING TARGETS

The second sweep was toward the area of Boulogne and the planes of the first returned from the direction of Calais. Shipping as well as shore objectives were the targets.

(British bombers apparently did not return to the attack on Germany during the night. Fires started in Berlin admitted Russian planes, flying along the Baltic coast, penetrated northern Germany last night and dropped bombs.)

The air ministry announced today that Hudson bombers scored a direct hit amidships on a Nazi supply vessel off the southern coast of Norway. The planes veered to a low level before releasing their cargo of explosives.

Britain, Soviet Given "Go Ahead"

LONDON, Aug. 21. — (BUP) — President Roosevelt has given Russia and Britain the "go ahead" to take any necessary steps in driving Fifth Columnists from Persia (or Iran).

Britain regards the situation in Iran as serious. London and Moscow have sent the Iranian government a second note. This note demands that 80 per cent. of the Germans in the country be asked to leave. Iran has stalled, and London quarters say the showdown now is not far off. These quarters add that at the recent high sea conference—Roosevelt told Churchill he recognized British interests in Iran and approved British and Russian measures to safeguard it from Axis seizure or control.

Far North Typist Reaches Toronto

TORONTO, Aug. 21. — (CP) — Anne McKenzie, sped typist from the far north, arrived by airplane today to compete with the Canadian National typing team in the third international typewriting marathon to be held at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Miss McKenzie had the 2,120-mile journey from Whitehorse, Y.T., entirely by plane. She spent 26 hours in the air.

Members of the Sourdough Society, composed of those who spent some years in the Yukon during the gold-rush era of 1890's were on hand to meet her when she arrived.

Coast Shipyard Dispute Settled

OTTAWA, Aug. 21 — (CP)— Labor Minister McLarty announced today a board of conciliation and investigation had settled a dispute between the Prince Rupert (B.C.) dry dock and shipyard, and its shipwrights and joiners.

Attached to the unanimous report of the board was a signed agreement extending the duration of the settlement negotiated with the board's assistance. The agreement, effective for the war, provides for an increase in the basic wage rate from 62 cents an hour to 90 cents. The dispute affected about 90 employees, some being members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and some being members of the Amalgamated Building Workers of Canada.

concern more intimately and to greater length than was possible by cable.

TO VISIT TROOPS

The Prime Minister sat on the raised platform of the conference hall flanked by Mr. Bracken, High Commissioner Vincent Massey, Sir Walter Monckton, Director-General of the Ministry and other officials.

As he finished his brief speech, the camera lights were switched off and he sat down. He rose a moment later to say that another purpose of his trip, and by no means the least, was to visit Canadian troops, airmen and seamen.

The prime minister was asked by an Australian newspaperman if he cared to comment on the possibility of forming an imperial war cabinet and replied that the stand made known in Canada.

PREFERS PRESENT PLAN

He dealt at some length with the present means of communication among the governments of the commonwealth, particularly between Britain and Canada. He tapped the long table in front of him, to emphasize his words, when he said, "I firmly believe that important decisions should not be made by one man but by a government as a whole."

He added that it might appear to some people that an imperial war cabinet might be more effective but the present arrangements for communication between governments were "infinitely more effective than any other possible means."

As an example he said that if he had been asked at the meeting of the British war cabinet today to give a definite answer as a particular question, he would not have been able to do so without consulting his ministers in Ottawa.

MORE EFFICIENT

He suggested it was more efficient for a prime minister to be able to discuss with his entire cabinet before announcing a decision which could be sent immediately to the British government.

He said this plan was working effectively and added: "As far as I am aware, there has not been a single point of difference between the Canadian and British governments since the beginning of the war."

In the last war, he went on to say, there had been "continual differences" but none this time.

Questioned on conscription, the prime minister said national unity was regarded as fundamental in Canada's war effort and no difficulties were being encountered in getting men for the armed forces.

The Canadian government had not introduced conscription "because it has found the people so willing."

NOT "RUBBER STAMPS"

"There is nothing finer than the attitude of French Canada," Mr. King said answering another question. "The Province of Quebec is solidly behind the government of Canada and the government of the United Kingdom in this war. Quebec appreciates even more than any other province of Canada to what we owe our liberties."

Asked if there was any truth in the saying that the dominions are rubber stamps for London, Mr. King replied with a smile, "Just ask my political opponents whether I'm a rubber stamp. I rather intend to be."

He disclosed plans to visit centres of air raid damage, to see the people's fortitude and how the war effort generally is carried on, adding "I want to get as much information in a short time as I possibly can."

Russian Spokesmen Counter Nazi Claims

MOSCOW, Aug. 21—(BUP)—The official Russian spokesman today counter German claims in the war on the eastern front with a statement that the Russians have killed outright 1,000,000 German soldiers in two months of war. Another million men were lost by the Germans in wounded and as prisoners.

New Anxiety Is Felt In Turkey Over Nazi Plans

Thrace, bordering on Turkey, and the Aegean Islands adjacent to the Turkish coast.

The Ankara dispatch mentioned "fresh" troops. German troop movements in Bulgaria recently caused alarm in Turkey until it developed that the troops were being sent there from the Russian front to rest).

MAY TRY DIVERSION

Diplomatic and Turkish quarters took the new reports seriously because they said other developments supported the possibility of a German demand on Turkey for troop transit facilities for an attack on the Russian Caucasus, or the British in the Near East.

One development was the increasing likelihood that the German campaign against Russia would go into the winter months without a decision.

Military experts said that after autumn rains begged the fighting fields in Russia about two months of fighting weather would remain in Bulgaria and Turkey and hence Adolf Hitler might be tempted to try a diversion on a new front.

A second development was the increasing complexities of the situation in Iran and a third was the unexplained intensification of German-Turkish diplomatic activity.

RUSS MOVE TROOPS

Diplomatic quarters heard that Germany was urging Iran to break off diplomatic relations with Great Britain, which, with Russia, has demanded the expulsion of up to 4,000 Germans from Iran.

Germany, despite its failure to give the promised aid to the rebels in Iraq several months ago, was said to be promising effective aid to Iran if it opposed Britain and Russia.

Russia was reported here to have moved between 30 and 45 divisions, or from 450,000 to 675,000 men from the vicinity of the Turkish eastern frontier and that most of them had gone to the Iranian frontier.

(This would be a lot of men to move. Further, if Russia had reason to fear a move by Germany through Turkey, or around the shores of the Black sea, the movement of a big army even the comparatively short distance toward the Iranian corridor opposite Iraq would seem unlikely.)

British quarters here started to hint that action in the Iranian situation was likely before September if Iran refused to oust the Germans.

Doctor Arrives To Fight Polio

WINNIPEG, Aug. 21.—(BUP)—Doctor John A. Paul, of Yale university, New Haven, Connecticut, arrived in Winnipeg today by plane, to aid in fighting infantile paralysis and sleeping sickness.

Doctor Paul will try to determine if there is any relation between the two diseases.

Meanwhile, officials have received reports of new cases of both diseases.

Twenty-three cases of infantile paralysis were reported from rural Manitoba, bringing the total to 891. No deaths were reported in the past 24 hours.

Sleeping sickness claimed 16 more victims. This raises the total number of persons stricken to 139. One death was reported from Virden, Manitoba.

The ministerial parties are sure to support the Prime Minister but there is little chance of the Labor Party agreeing unless he resigns as leader of the government.

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 21—(CP)—Following the decision of the Labor caucus on Tuesday today opposing Prime Minister R. G. Menzies going to London to sit with the British war cabinet, animated debate ensued in parliament.

After John Curtin, Labor leader, had defended the decision of the caucus, Navy Minister W. M. Hughes emphasized the need of the best representation in London. He said Australia needed America's help in the Pacific and the only one who could induce the United States to send ships to the South Pacific was Britain.

The debate continued to a late hour and in the meantime the full cabinet met to study the position arising out of Labor's uncompromising attitude to Mr. Menzies' refusal to go to London other than as prime minister. There was much talk in the lobbies of a possible election on the issue.

UTTER LACK OF VALIDITY

Mr. Roosevelt said it was perhaps unnecessary to "call attention once more to the utter lack of validity of the spoken or written word of the Nazi government."

He added it also was unnecessary to point out that the declarations included of necessity "the world need for freedom of religion and freedom of information."

"No society of the world organized under the announced principles could survive without these freedoms which are a part of the whole freedom for which we strive."

The presidential message, military and naval conversations at the North Atlantic conference "made clear plainly in furthering the effectiveness of lend-lease aid to countries east and west.

WORTHWHILE GOAL

He and the prime minister, Mr. Roosevelt added, are arranging for conferences with Russia to aid it "in its defence against the attack made by the principal aggressor of the modern world—Germany."

Written with pencil and scratch pad in the president's study last night, the message contained a copy of the official statement released by the White House last Thursday covering the eight general aims agreed upon by the Prime Minister and Mr. Roosevelt.

Illustrious Being Repaired In States

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—(AP)—The British press service announces that the battle-scarred aircraft carrier Illustrious is in a United States shipyard undergoing repairs and that Capt. Lord Louis Mountbatten, cousin of the King, who arrived by clipper Tuesday, would command her when she is ready for service again.

The announcement, authorized by the ministry of information in London, did not disclose exact whereabouts of the 23,000-ton vessel.

Admiralty reports published June 21 said the mighty vessel, a year old and with a speed of more than 30 knots, was almost destroyed in Axis plane attacks Jan. 10 near Sicily and again at Malta, where she took refuge.

WOMEN ASKED TO CUT SKIRTS SEVERAL INCHES

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—(CP)—A clarion call to women to "cut skirt lengths several inches" was issued today by the National Women's Undergarment Manufacturers' Association.

Delegates to a meeting of the organization said their suggestion should result in a saving of at least 10 per cent in women's underwear and dress fabrics. They said such a saving would total millions of yards of cloth.

States Willing To Lend Soviet Cash

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Jesse Jones, United States federal loan administrator, said yesterday he was prepared to lend money to Russia to finance war supply purchases in this country.

Jones said a loan to Russia was more likely than lend-lease aid, once Russia runs out of cash to pay for purchases. He said he did not know how long Russia's cash would last.

"If the administration policy is to help Russia and she is unable to pay cash," Jones said, "I think we (the federal loan agency which includes the reconstruction and finance corporation) can find some way to help."

WIDENING WATCH ON PRICES OF NECESSARIES OF LIFE

Critical Stage Of Costs Of Living Control Reached

Possible Clash Between War Time Prices, Trade Board, Milk Groups Seen

By B. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—With retail prices beginning to push hard against war time cost of living controls all across Canada, the war prices board is steadily widening its watch on prices of the necessaries of life. Reports are coming to Ottawa in increasing flow of small rises here and there, of alleged instances of petty chiselling at the expense of consumers, all evidence that the critical stage of costs of living control has now been reached in this war.

A possible collision between the war time prices and trade board and milk boards in several provinces is foreseen by Ottawa observers, though a spokesman for the war prices board reiterated today the board's position that milk price control so far is a provincial matter.

But the Saskatchewan Milk Control Board has raised city prices two cents a quart to 13 cents, the Manitoba Milk Board is reported considering an increase of a cent a quart, and the Ontario Milk Board is maintaining a price of 12 cents throughout the province. Shortages of feed are given as the main factor in rising milk prices, but the war prices board, as official guardian of consumers interests, may be called to determine whether the provincial boards are guarding the interests of producers and distributors to the detriment of the consumer.

CONFERENCES UNDER WAY

Meanwhile, a succession of important conferences among senior federal officials is under way preliminary to placing the war prices board under the finance department, tying it up with other war time controls, and enlarging its policing powers to cover all consumers goods rather than just the necessaries of life.

The storm signals of price inflation are seen plainly in latest index readings by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The cost of living index is up more than 10 per cent since the start of war, and the sharpest rise is in food prices which rose 2.8 points, vegetables, meats and fish rose more than five points in June. The cost of living is still well below 1929-30 levels.

RISING RESTAURANT PRICES

Winnipeg reports that restaurants had boosted the price of coffee a cent a cup, find a parallel in rising restaurant prices in many cities, and reports of added charges on sandwiches, reduction in size of pie cuts, and so on.

In the case of milk, distributors have recently reduced deliveries to save gasoline, without passing on the saving to the consumer. This might become a matter for the War Prices board to investigate, if it steps into the milk control field, an official intimated.

In the case of bread, prices have been fairly steady and the recent order banning sale of sliced bread is credited with preventing a rise in price to consumers. But police investigations have been started in Eastern Canada, it was learned, into instances where retail stores have defied the order.

Generally speaking, prices of luxuries have been allowed to go up, but with a little careful shopping around, household buying of necessities can be kept within a reasonable budget, officials believe. This means that some items of the Canadian menu are now out of reach. Canned salmon has gone up, under stimulus of a big British order. The same is true of bacon. Olive oil and all lines of nuts have gone up. But the housewife that accepts a simpler diet and adjusts her food buying habits to changing conditions, can still get along.

KEPT WELL IN LINE

Many important items in the cost of living have been kept well in line, except for new war taxation. These include housing, where rental control is available, coal, cheaper cuts of meat, sugar.

Canned corn is becoming a scarcity item, due to corn borer losses in the Ontario crop last year and this. But the demand is shifting to peas and other vegetables. Jams and corn syrup are up slightly, due to the two cent tax increase on sugar. The supply of fresh strawberry pulp has been almost all cornered for shipment to Britain, and western drought has cut down berry production in that region. But there are still good supplies at cheap prices if the housewife shops around.

Churchill Greets Mackenzie King

By R. K. CARNEGIE

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(CP)—Canada's Prime Minister, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, entered the secret confines of Great Britain's war cabinet room today after he had been greeted warmly by Prime Minister Churchill on the limestone step of historic 10 Downing Street.

In the view of only a handful of camera and news men, Mr. Churchill gave a hearty welcome to Mr. King who had just driven from Buckingham Palace where he met the King's private secretary, Sir Alexander Hardinge. Earlier the Canadian prime minister had received a letter from His Majesty expressing the royal welcome to England.

Mr. Churchill, cigar in mouth, extended his hand and gripped that of Mr. King in a prolonged handshake.

"I'm so delighted to meet you," said Mr. King. "This is a tremendous pleasure."

Mr. Churchill retained the Canadian prime minister's hand and placed his left hand on Mr. King's shoulder, saying: "I'm delighted to meet you, too. This is fine."

Mr. MacDonald, together with Rear-Admiral Percy Nelles, chief of Canadian naval staff, and Capt. F. L. Houghton, director of plans, had been in conference with Mr. Churchill for some time before Mr. King, wearing the typical Whitehall dress of black jacket and striped trousers, came on the scene.

POSES FOR PICTURES

The Canadian prime minister was accompanied on his Buckingham Palace visit by Brig. G. P. Vanier, former Canadian minister to France who is a member of Mr. King's official party.

Arriving in Downing Street, Mr. King posed for pictures and insisted on being photographed with the tall bobby on duty outside No. 10.

After the cameramen had clicked away for several minutes Mr. Churchill escorted the visitor through the big green door to the chamber where a Canadian Prime Minister had not attended a war cabinet meeting since the days of Sir Robert Borden in the first Great war.

Shortly after the two Prime Ministers disappeared, British ministers and the chiefs of staff began to arrive.

Before Mr. King went to Buckingham Palace he talked with Prime Minister Peter Fraser of New Zealand for more than an hour. Mr. Fraser said they discussed everything of interest to Canada, New Zealand and the British Empire, "and especially the Pacific."

Between his talk with Mr. Fraser and his visit to Buckingham Palace the Canadian Prime Minister inspected air raid damage at the House of Commons and Westminster Hall.

Mr. King will spend the week-end with Mr. Churchill in the country.

After lunch with the British prime minister, Mr. King posed on the steps of No. 10 for more pictures. So many photographers' bulbs were flashing that Mr. Churchill turned to the Canadian visitor and remarked "we should be blindfolded."

The prime ministers shook hands and then parted. Mr. Churchill returned indoors and Mr. King crossed the street to the Dominions office, where he met Viscount Cranborne, the secretary of state.

As he entered the Dominions office Mr. King, who had viewed the damaged house of commons during the morning, remarked: "It's a terribly sad sight for anyone who had seen it before."

Governor-General Spends Busy Day

SASKATOON, Aug. 21.—(CP)—Canada's governor-general, the Earl of Athlone, and Princess Alice spent a busy day at Saskatoon Wednesday.

They inspected military establishments, war auxiliary services and took part in a short parade through streets in Saskatoon's downtown business section.

The Governor General and his wife spent more than one hour at No. 4 Service Flying Training School, a unit of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan. They were shown the various phases of training were by the commanding officer, Wing. Cmdr. Ernest McNab, D.F.C., one of the heroes of last autumn's aerial battle of Britain.

The Earl had a few encouraging words for members of a class of pupil pilots who were scheduled to receive their wings at a ceremony in the afternoon. Later the vice-regal party called at the Royal Canadian Air Force Radio Technical School at the University of Saskatchewan, the barracks of the Saskatoon division of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve, the Technical Collegiate Institute where they saw military men at work learning trades, and topped off a strenuous afternoon by inspecting a group of veterans of the first Great War.

Vichy, Nazis Talk Terms Of Peace

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(AP)—A B.B.C. broadcast from London which quoted French border reports to the Free French news agency AFI today said the Vichy and German governments are discussing a peace treaty by which Hitler would get military and naval bases in France and North Africa and the right to joint exploitation of French colonial empire. In return, the broadcast said, the Germans would partially withdraw their troops from France.

Former French Premier Lauds Great Britain

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—(AP)—Edward Herriot, former premier of France and mayor of Lyons, has written "from the depths of solitude" a memoir expressing "fervent admiration" for Great Britain and the United States.

The current American Mercury observes that "the world will recognize this article as an act of courage and patriotism."

The magazine, calling the article the first written since the armistice by a democratic French statesman still residing in France, says it "carefully avoids direct discussion of the current tragedy."

"Among the memories which fill my journal," writes Herriot, "the most precious to me in these tragic days we are living through are the ones that bring back the beginnings of my cordial relations with two nations for which my admiration today is more fervent than ever—Great Britain and the United States."

Herriot speaks mostly of his work as mayor of Lyons, a post he held from 1905 to 1940. He speaks little of his days in the French cabinet or as head of the government, but observes in one place:

"The most beautiful moment in my public life was when in December, 1922, I sacrificed a government over which I presided, in order to respect the signature of France and not to betray our common memories of the last war."

That was when Herriot resigned as premier on the issue of the French debt to the United States.

Herriot recalls his first visit to Britain in 1906, when, with a delegation from his city council, he visited several cities, and of the impression made upon him by the Englishman's love of liberty."

Rationing Of Cars Certain In States

DETROIT, Aug. 21 — (AP) — A shortage of new cars in the United States, a rationing of those available to dealers and an increase in retail prices of from $150 to $200 in the average car bracket are certainties, according to authoritative trade sources attempting to appraise the most uncertain future the U.S. automobile industry ever has faced.

Possibilities, a little remote at the moment, say these same sources, include a rationing of vehicles to users with priority to individuals engaged in occupations essential to the public well being. Consideration also has been given to the possible future need for a priorities plan for servicing of used cars.

Under this plan a car owned and used by a physician, for example, would be serviced with replacement parts ahead of the vehicle of less urgent necessity.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—(AP)—William S. Knudsen, director of the office of production management, said yesterday production quotas for United States automobile manufacturers for the next four months would be set today and that they likely would be about 20 per cent below the 1940 rate of output.

REDS ACT TO SLOW NAZIS

Report Huge Russ Dam Is Destroyed

By the Associated Press

Reports which the Associated Press has been unable to confirm circulated last night in a number of European capitals that Russian troops had blown up the huge hydro-electric power dam on the Dnieper river near Dnieperpetrovsk in an effort to slow the German advance into the Ukraine.

The New York Times in a Berne dispatch said an unconfirmed report originating in Bucharest told how millions of tons of swirling waters broke through the dynamited barrier to flood the lowlands on the lower elbow of the river.

QUOTE STALIN'S ORDER

The Daily Mail's version went so far as to quote what was purported to be Premier Joseph Stalin's exact order to Marshal Semeon Budenny, commander of the Red army troops on the southern front.

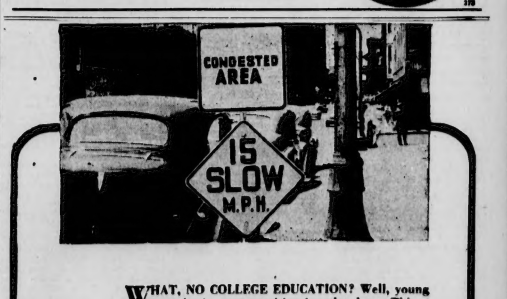

Stalin, according to this version, called Marshal Budenny and asked him if he had managed to get as many of his retreating troops across the Dnieper river as possible.

"Yes," Budenny said. "Nearly half a million."

"Good", then blow up the dam," Stalin was supposed to have said.

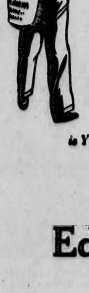

The Stockholm dispatch then related how Russian sappers dynamited the dam which took four years to build and once was reputed to be the largest in the world.

Authoritative sources in London said they had no confirmation of the reports.

WORLD'S LATEST MARVEL OF FIGHTING MACHINERY

Canadian Army Tank Corps Has New British Monster

Nothing Comparable To New "Land Battleship" In Any Army Of Today

By HAROLD DINGMAN

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Aug. 21.—(BUP)—I climbed up on the greasy machine and slid into the turret of the world's most powerful tank—a land monster surpassing anything Hitler ever conceived. Inside the turret it was scrupulously clean. The quarters were crowded, but not cramped.

H. Dingman

Sir John Dill, chief of the Imperial general staff, had just finished inspecting the Canadian army tank corps when we got the signal to go aboard.

The motors started with a deafening roar and the mighty machine pulsed and vibrated. The young crew commander, Lieut. H. A. Smith, of Dauphin, Man., gave the command.

Corporal J. C. Jackson of Oshawa, Ont., slipped the clutch and the land battleship lurched ahead. "Driver, left!" came another command, and we swung. "Driver steady."

We were off, thundering across the English countryside in the world's latest marvel of fighting machinery.

The hatches were closed and the heat from the gigantic engines was terrific, our clothes were soaked in perspiration.

The noise in the tank was so great that the only communication between the crew was conducted by telephone. We all wore headphones and could speak to each other quite clearly. That is how the crew commander directs his ship—giving orders to advance, turn or fire.

COMMANDER GRINS

Until you become accustomed to it, the violent pitch and lurch of the machine knocks you all about. You bang your head and bruise your ears. The crew commander grins. In a few minutes he opens the hatches and we stand on our seats, head and shoulders in the open air above the turret. The clean air whistles past you as the giant machine hurtles ditches and tank obstacles.

I can't tell you about the speed of these tanks, but we were rumbling along at a good clip. We approached a ditch. It looked to me to be pretty wide and deep, and I held my breath and took a tight grip on the hatch cover. The monster didn't go down it or up it. It reached across it! There was a lurch and a bad one. It knocked the wind out of us. But we hadn't reduced speed. The tank just kept on going.

As far as military men know, there is nothing comparable to this tank in any army today. The Canadian tank men like them, even better than the other tanks they have been issued although they have a healthy respect for them and wouldn't mind joining in battle with anyone of them.

FORMIDABLE MACHINE

It is a formidable machine. Military logic today prevents an accurate description of its workings. "Land battleship" has become a cliche but there's no other word for it.

Sir John Dill's last words to the Canadian tank men were: "Time is short." It was hardly a necessary reminder for the commanding officer. He has been tank conscious since the last war, and within a few months of this war he trained thousands and thousands of Canadians for tank work.

These men are specially chosen from mechanical and mining fields of employment. Even after arrival in England they are given new tests and if they are found wanting they are shifted to another unit. Each man in a tank must be able to do the job of the other.

Canada Is With Empire To Win War, King Says

SOMEWHERE IN BRITAIN, Aug. 21—(CP)—Canada is with the Empire "heart and soul for winning the war," Prime Minister Mackenzie King declared Wednesday night.

Asked for a statement before boarding a train for London the prime minister, who arrived here by plane from Canada Wednesday, told reporters:

"Please tell Great Britain that Canada is with the Empire heart and soul for winning the war and will not spare any effort that is necessary to ensure victory."

Mr. King also thanked the British people for their hospitality to Canadian servicemen. He said letters received from soldiers spoke in "glowing terms" of the hospitality they received.

"This friendship will strengthen the strong ties existing between Britain and Canada and help in the future to develop the cultural, material and economic exchanges necessary to the welfare of both countries," he said.

Two Eskimos Are Freed Of Murder

By JAMES McCOOK

BELCHER ISLANDS, Aug. 21.—(CP)—A white man's jury, charged with the fate of a group of Eskimos accused of murder following a religious argument in the remote northern wastes near Hudson Bay, Wednesday acquitted two of the Eskimos—one a woman—and returned verdicts of guilty of manslaughter in the cases of two others.

Alec Apawkok, charged with the murder of his sister Sarah, who, Eskimo witnesses said, was believed to be Satan, and an Eskimo woman known as Akeevik, charged with the same murders, were found not guilty. The jury, made up of newspapermen, a mining party, and a schooner crew acquitted the woman on grounds of temporary insanity.

Peter Sala and another Eskimo called Ablaykok accused of the murder of a tribesman known as Keytowiek, were found guilty of manslaughter and a strong recommendation for mercy in Ablaykok's case was brought in.

Cases of the remaining three Eskimos of the group of seven accused of being involved in deaths of nine Eskimos early this spring still remains to be dealt with.

Airmen Will Play Big Role In War

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—(CP)—Airmen trained in Canada will play a large role in bringing home to the German people what war means and hastening the time when they may be ready to get rid of the "Nazi gang," Lord Halifax, British ambassador to the United States, said at a press conference here Wednesday.

He said it is too soon to build any hopes on a turn of public opinion in Germany because it is so difficult to get any thought through the bars of the prison which confines the German mind, but said he believes British propaganda and other factors will make an impression in time.

The ambassador flew here from Montreal where he stopped on his way from Washington to Great Britain. He was the guest of Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, British high commissioner, at lunch and met members of the Canadian cabinet including Justice Minister Lapointe, Defence Minister Ralston and Resources Minister Crerar.

Coal Miners Strike

STELLARTON, N.S., Aug. 21.—(CP)—Twelve hundred striking employees tied up production at the Acadia Coal Company's Allan shaft here Wednesday, walking out in sympathy with 18 men on the power plant who struck earlier after demanding wage increases. The strike cut coal production by about 2,000 tons daily.

Great Areas Of Forests Ablaze Northern B.C.

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C., Aug. 21. — (CP) — Forestry officials Wednesday night considered closing down mills and logging camps throughout this district in a move to obtain sufficient men to fight forest fires raging over hundreds of square miles of northern British Columbia, between the crest of the Rockies and the coast range and from Prince George to the Alaska border.

A steady stream of reports reaching here told of fire after fire which was "too big to fight" or impossible to control because "there is not enough manpower."

HIGH FIRE HAZARD

Only hope of relief, forestry officials said, is heavy rains. Yesterday was the ninth of very low humidity and high fire hazard.

E. Gregg, forester in charge of operations, Victoria, who arrived here Tuesday night, yesterday flew over the fire area in an attempt to locate boundaries of the various blazes. Smoke is so dense over the area, forest service officials have been unable to define the fires, despite aerial surveys.

Biggest of the blazes which can be fought is at great Beaver lake, where more than 100 square miles are blazing.

Faces Theft Charge

STRATFORD, Ont., Aug. 21.—(CP)— Walter Thomson, for six months a member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, has been released on $8,000 bail on a theft charge involving a $4,000 grain transaction with a Toronto firm. Thomson was formerly of Mitchell, Sask. Hearing was set for Sept. 9.

Justice Minister Lapointe Acting Government Head

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—(CP)—Governmental business went ahead as usual Wednesday following the early-morning announcement of Prime Minister Mackenzie King's arrival in the United Kingdom after a trans-Atlantic flight.

In Mr. King's absence Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice, is acting prime minister. He presided over a cabinet meeting Tuesday but none was held yesterday.

The ministers took time off from their office work to meet Lord Halifax, British ambassador to the United States, at a luncheon given by Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, British high commissioner here.

C.N.R. Passenger Traffic Improves

MINAKI, Ont., Aug. 21.—"Our passenger business shows a substantial increase over last season and, generally speaking, the tourist business is up over last year. However, certain restrictions have come into the picture which have prevented the tourist business from being much larger than it is," declared C. W. Johnston, general traffic manager of the Canadian National Railways who is here enroute to Montreal. Mr. Johnston has made an inspection trip over all western Canada.

"Jasper is having its finest season and Minaki is in the same category and both these summer resorts are fulfilling their original purpose to provide a suitable stopover place for transcontinental passengers. Generally speaking business conditions throughout the west were good, with much activity noticeable," said Mr. Johnston.

London Papers Welcome Visit Premier King

LONDON, Aug. 21—(CP)—British morning newspapers have welcomed Prime Minister Mackenzie King to this embattled isle and viewed his arrival for discussions with the United Kingdom government as foreshadowing developments connected with the war effort of the empire.

"Plainly big decisions are to be taken on how and where the Empire's power shall strike," said the Daily Express pointing to the presence in London of the New Zealand prime minister, Peter Fraser.

Both Mr King and Mr. Fraser are to sit in on meetings of the war cabinet.

"WELCOME NEWS"

Remarking that Prime Minister Robert Menzies of Australia is also "fighting" for permission to come to London, The Express added: "The more Empire statesmen we have at the war cabinet meetings the more confidence we shall have that the decisions made can and will be carried out.

"It is welcome news that Mackenzie King has been able to accept the invitation of our government," said The Daily Telegraph.

The newspaper said the obstacles to an Imperial war conference had not prevented considerable effective consultation. Mr. Menzies visited London for a considerable time, and Mr. Fraser delayed his departure in order to confer with the Canadian prime minister.

The Telegraph added that collaboration by Empire statesmen should be developed to the utmost.

The Times, devoting a column to the arrival, sketched Canada's war effort and praised the Dominion Prime Minister for his work in bringing about closer co-operation between Britain and the United States.

"Mackenzie King's arrival, though arranged some time ago, follows opportunely upon the Atlantic conference between Roosevelt and Churchill," the Times said. "Canada has been called the bridge between the British Empire and the United States. Certainly no Prime Minister in any country of the Empire has realized more clearly than Mackenzie King the vital importance of the closest possible co-operation between the two great English-speaking peoples or worked harder to bring it about."

The newspaper said that during the visit the Prime Minister would be able "to establish and revive direct personal contacts between the leading statesmen of the Commonwealth of British nations . . . and be able to see and measure for himself the effort which this country is making in the cause for freedom."

"WAR DEVELOPMENTS"

The Daily Herald did not comment editorially on the visit but in a front-page story said that "important Empire war developments are foreshadowed" by the arrival of Mr. King.

The Herald said he was attending meetings of the war cabinet for this purpose "Equipped with the latest information on the Canadian supply position."

The Daily Mail said the news of Mr. King's presence means "another headache for Ribbentrop" because the Nazi foreign minister had always told Hitler that Canada would stay neutral in any European war.

Dealing with the part Canada and the other Dominions are playing in the war, the Mail said they were entitled to "direct participation" in the directions of the conflict, and added that "appointment now to the inner war cabinet of one representative of all the Dominions" would be generally welcomed. The newspaper suggested that Mr. Menzies would be the man if he could be spared from Australia.

Prime Minister Is Welcomed On London Arrival

By HAROLD FAIR

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King stepped from a train in big Euston station today to receive an restrained, impressive reception the heart of the Empire accords distinguished visitors.

There was no guard of honor—that formality was carried out when the Canadian Prime Minister landed by bomber at a British airport yesterday—or cheers, but just staid British handshakes and words of greeting.

GREETED BY MINISTERS

Smiling, the Prime Minister was welcomed by Viscount Cranborne, secretary of state for the Dominions, and Sir Archibald Sinclair, secretary of state for air, on behalf of the British government; by Cmdr. C. R. Thompson, representing Prime Minister Churchill; by the heads of Canada's armed forces, and by Euston's official greeter, Stationmaster Joseph Harrison, who dons a silk hat and frock coat for such occasions.

After half an hour of handshaking and chatting while a battery of photographers snapped him from all angles, Mr. King departed by car with High Commissioner and Mrs. Vincent Massey for breakfast at the west end hotel where Mr. King is making his headquarters.

Before leaving he asked Stationmaster Harrison to thank the engineer for the smooth night-long ride, explaining he had been able to sleep soundly.

"We have no shadow of doubt as to the outcome of the war," Mr. King told reporters. "It will be won by the great brave people of Britain.

"There is only one mind in Canada—and it is to do all we can to help winning the war. Canada is at the side of Britain to the utmost of her strength in resources, both material and human.

"We are proud beyond words of the British people and of what they have done to maintain the standards of liberty in the world."

Lt. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian Corps, and Maj. Gen. P. J. Montague, senior officer of Canadian military headquarters in London, boarded the train and chatted with the prime minister for a few moments.

OTHER WELCOMERS

Other welcomers included Hon. Angus Macdonald, Canadian navy minister; Rear - Admiral Percy Nelles, chief of Canadian naval staff; John Kearney, Canadian high commissioner to Eire, and Mrs. Kearney, who arrived by clipper and are proceeding to Dublin Saturday; Air Commodore L. F. Stevenson, senior air staff officer Royal Canadian Air Force headquarters in Britain, and Geoffrey Shakespeare, undersecretary of state for the Dominions.

Replying to a question by reporters as to the experiences of his first airplane flight, Mr. King said: "I have never enjoyed anything so much. I'll fly anywhere after crossing the Atlantic. Really it was a revelation."

The prime minister is expected to meet Gen. McNaughton on Saturday and attend army sports where he will be able to meet some of the Canadian troops informally before making an official inspection at a later date.

War Casualties

LONDON, Aug. 21—(CP)—The war office's casualty list No. 207 issued Wednesday night carried the names of 49 killed, 16 wounded and previously listed wounded who has since died of wounds, five wounded and prisoners of war, 113 prisoners of war, one previously listed as prisoner who has since died as a prisoner, four previously listed as prisoners now known to have been wounded and 20 who died.

Airmen Graduate As Officers At Eastern Centre

DUNNVILLE, Ont., Aug. 21.—(CP)—For the first time in the history of No. 6 Royal Canadian Air Force service flying training centre here, many of the fighter pilots who received their wings at a presentation ceremony, graduated as commissioned officers with the rank of pilot officer. Usually graduates receive their sergeant stripes, making them sergeant-pilots.

Group Capt. A. H. Hill, officer commanding the training centre, told the class they had made the best showing of any class of the school to date.

J. N. Cawsey of Calgary was among pilots who graduated with a commission. Others were from eastern Canada.

Canadian-Made Tanks Go Through Their Paces

Canadian-made tanks go through manoeuvres outside Angus shops whose munition works are turning out the fast, powerful machines at an ever increasing rate for the benefit of the British armed forces. The exhibition was witnessed by His Excellency the Earl of Athlone, governor-general of Canada, and H.R.H. the Princess Alice, who visited the great Canadian Pacific shops near Montreal on an inspection tour Tuesday afternoon. They were accompanied by Major-General A. E. MacRae, military technical adviser to department of munitions and supply; Col. G. E. Butler, his assistant; D. C. Coleman, vice-president, and other officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Lord Beaverbrook

Economic Director

HALF-TYCOON, half-kobold Lord Beaverbrook is a strange man to be in charge of getting "the tools" into the hands of British soldiers and civilians. . . . He isn't even English, but the son of a poor Presbyterian minister who emigrated to Canada from Scotland . . . in Ontario, William Maxwell ("Max") Aitken was born. . . .

Knack of acquisitiveness was strong in Aitken; he moved to New Brunswick, quickly made a fortune in utilities . . . took the fortune, went to England and quickly made another newspaper publishing . . . following American methods, and using his publications as political stepping-stones.

Frankish, unpredictable, capricious, his methods of work are erratic but effective . . . they made him Lord Beaverbrook. . . . Churchill turned to him to straighten out the airplane production mess, though Beaverbrook as late as mid-1939 had been "isolationist." . . . He made good, was entrusted with virtual economic dictatorship . . . plunged into the battle of production with characteristic wild energy and unpredictable methods.

NAME and all, Admiral Harold Raynsford Stark is "all American." Admiral Sir Alfred Dudley Pickman Rogers Pound is half-American . . . his mother was a Bostonian, Elizabeth Rogers.

First Sea Lord of the British fleet, Admiral Pound is brisk and fresh, with steely-blue eyes. . . . Chief of Naval Operations, U.S.

Admiral Pound Admiral Stark

N. Admiral Stark has a pinkly-tanned face beneath a thatch of gray hair. . . .

Both served in the World War. . . . Pound was getting his baptism of fire at Jutland when the heavy cruiser Colossus which he commanded was heavily hit by German shells . . . shortly, before Stark led a squadron of old "tin-can" destroyers from Manila under bad weather conditions to take part in anti-submarine work in the Mediterranean.

Tall, with prominent nose and brow . . . Pound is aggressive, warned the admiralty for years to get ready for "a hell of a fight." . . . Proved his diplomatic abilities as well as his seamanship when in charge of the British fleet in the Mediterranean during the Ethiopian and Spanish wars, critical days. . . .

Stark succeeded to the usual series of higher and higher commands . . . specialized in gunnery, and under him the West Virginia usually won the "mess ball," as sailors call the coveted Battle Efficiency Trophy. . . .

Pound wrote a standard text-book on ship organization . . . also showed himself a man of action by twice risking his life in attempts to save lives of endangered sailors. . . . He's 62. Stark is 61. . . . Stark was promoted to his present post over the heads of a long list of senior officers.

Winston Churchill Franklin D. Roosevelt

Two Country Squires

FROM the stately castle "Blenheim" and its rolling, well-manicured greens, came Winston Spencer Churchill, acutely conscious of his famous soldier-ancestor, the Duke of Marlboro. . . . From the 1,000-acre estate, perched high above the Hudson, ancestral manor-house of the solid Dutch Roosevelt family, came Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Financial comfort, the best educational advantages were open to both. . . . Roosevelt took the civilian road to law through private schools, Groton and Harvard. . . . Churchill the military, through Sandhurst.

Eloquence, energy, love of the sea, love for political combat link these men . . . Churchill thrusting his way upward as war correspondent and spectacular subaltern in the Boer war . . . Roosevelt entering politics in 1910. . . . Both were in responsible leadership during World War I . . . Churchill as organizer and seer, who planned the Dardanelles campaign which was so costly a failure . . . Roosevelt as assistant secretary of the navy.

Sharp-tongued, bluff and abrupt is Churchill. . . . Smooth, persuasive, courageous and visionary is Roosevelt. . . . Fighters against odds, Churchill maintained a stubborn "lone-wolf" opposition to Tory policies for years. . . . Roosevelt refused to yield to paralysis which lamed his legs, built himself back to robust, fighting health, guided 133,000,000 people through nine strenuous years.

Marshall, a voluble talker, is regarded in the service as a brilliant organizer and tactician, leaning to the cerebral rather than to actual command in the field . . . just six feet, sandy haired, methodical and hard-working.

Harry Hopkins

Minister At Large

HARRY LLOYD HOPKINS has spent more money than any other man on earth. . . . His rise to presidential right-hand man is a direct product of the depression. . . . Known to President Roosevelt as administrator of the state welfare program he instituted as governor, Hopkins was a natural to head up relief and welfare measures under the New Deal. . . . Iowa-born son of a harness-maker, Hopkins went to Grinnell College. . . . After a brief fling at semi-pro baseball, he went into welfare work . . . was administering $3,000,000 budgets at 25.

Frail of physique, Hopkins' health is not robust . . . he had to withdraw from public life recently to regain it; found the routine as secretary of commerce too heavy . . . likes poker and frankly admits a liking for "playing the ponies." . . . Experts Believe Russia Can Hold Out Until Winter pletely. Every official announcement which has been made since the Atlantic conference has indicated a definite conviction on the part of both Prime Minister Winston Churchill and President Roosevelt that the Russians are bound to hold out.

This view, in turn, has communicated itself to the British and American peoples. The president's announcement that the Atlantic conference has brought the United States no closer to war than it was before has also carried the implication that the president's opinion, and perhaps in the opinion of Churchill as well, American participation in the war is not an immediate necessity.

That opinion, if it does really exist in the minds of the two leaders, appears to be based on an absolute belief in Russia's invincibility. If Russia were beaten or rendered practically hors de combat, the resultant position would be so serious that full American participation would appear of instant and vital necessity.

Those who have watched relations between the Soviet Union, Great Britain and the United States during the past generation view the coming Moscow conference with mixed feelings of great hope and trepidation. Relations between the Soviet Union and the western powers have been handicapped in the past by what the Russians themselves have regarded as rank amateurism on the democratic side. They have always recalled with undisguised criticism the manner in which the United States undertook recognition of the Soviet Union in 1933. Those negotiations were conducted by President Roosevelt and William C. Bullitt (who subsequently became America's first ambassador to newly recognized Moscow), on behalf of the United States, and by then Foreign Commissar Maxim M. Litvinov on behalf of the Soviet Union.

EXPERTS EXCLUDED

Roosevelt had never been in the Soviet Union and Bullitt had been there only for a brief and hurried visit more than 20 years before. American experts who had all the necessary knowledge at their finger tips were excluded from the negotiations.

The result was that the negotiators spent two days examining such matters as religious freedom and the activities of the comintern, then hurriedly came to a verbal agreement on the settlement of trade and finance questions which was never put into effect. The state department does not know to this day just what undertakings the American negotiators gave Litvinov or what undertakings he gave them.

British attempts to conclude an alliance with the Soviet Union in 1939 were marked by the same lack of success from the Allied viewpoint and for much the same reasons. The British and French did not know what they were prepared to do to secure Soviet assistance and by the time they had decided that the Soviet Union had concluded a treaty with Germany, who had a very definite idea of what she wanted and how she could get it. German commercial counselor Hilger, who played a leading part in the Nazi negotiations with the Soviet, had lived almost his entire life in Russia.

It is evident that the Moscow conference may be of tremendous importance to the Allies if it is properly managed and that it may be a complete fiasco if it is done either halfheartedly or by people who do not know their business. Indications now are that both the British and American governments understand this and that they will send competent people to Moscow armed with enough knowledge and authority to negotiate seriously and effectively.

Nazis Attempt To Stifle Frenchmen

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(CP)—Germany and Vichy are finding it hard to stifle French resentment against the Nazis, the British broadcasting Corporation said Wednesday night.

The Paris radio announced yesterday that two Frenchmen had been shot for demonstrations against Germany and in Alsace the Nazi Gauleiter issued "fresh orders designed to stamp out any expression of independence."

The BBC quoted the orders as saying:

"Anyone speaking against Germany will be hanged. Anyone speaking French when they know German will be sent to a concentration camp for a year. Anyone listening to foreign radio broadcasts will be punished by three to five years in a concentration camp. Anyone wearing a Basque beret will be sent to a concentration camp for a year."

Chief Constable McKay has been acting chief since Brig. Foster was given an indefinite leave of absence nearly two years ago to serve with the Canadian army.

Interpreting War News

Pacific"—a zone similar to the United States neutrality belt flung about the western hemisphere.

Here are all the ingredients for a first class dilemma, a crisis overshadowing the issue of Indo-China and Thailand, with a shooting war or a diplomatic surrender the only ways out.

Will Japan dare interfere with the flow of munitions which President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill promised in their message to Joseph Stalin? What answer is being prepared to a possible Tokyo declaration that war supplies must not move through waters near Japan?

It is hardly likely that Russia, Britain or the United States would acquiesce if Japan blocked the most feasible route for aid. To accept such a situation would be to suffer a major diplomatic defeat and lose face.

TANKER EN ROUTE

The first tanker en route from Los Angeles is due to reach the other side of the Pacific in less than three weeks. It must pass through the narrow strait between Japan's Honshu and Hokkaido islands, within sight of the important naval base of Hokodate.

In both Washington and London there seems to be a firm official feeling that Japan, because of her double over the fate of Russia, is in a position where she must wait and see, and dare not fight or even bluff too strongly.

Tokyo in the meantime is making the most of the uncertainty and a Japanese naval spokesman warns that "A step further and Japan will be driven to make a decision involving life and death."

Canadian Airman With Artificial Leg Still Serves

TORONTO, Aug. 21—(CP)—An artificial leg and no ankle joint in the other, suffered in a plane crash in England, has "grounded" Flying Officer J. A. E. Monette of Ottawa but the 28-year-old airman refuses to be beaten.

Monette, attached to No. 1 initial air training school here, was presented to the Duke of Kent Wednesday and afterwards recounted to newspapermen circumstances surrounding his ill-fated flight.

He joined the Royal Air Force a year before the outbreak of war and was attached to the 18th bomber squadron. Most of his work was aerial photography and the youthful-looking flier said he frequently "shot" Germany's Ruhr valley.

Returning from one of these flights his plane crashed on the coast of Lincolnshire. "My observer died a couple of hours after the crash, and my gunner came out of it without a scratch," he said. The accident occurred in February, 1940, and two months later Monette's leg was amputated.

Invalided home, he joined the Royal Canadian Air Force at Ottawa and was transferred to Toronto where he is a Link trainer instructor.

In addition to the Great Lakes Canada has 11 lakes more than 1,000 square miles in area.

Pressure On Vichy

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(CP)—Germany has "openly put pressure on Vichy to ensure complete and continuing co-operation," the British Broadcasting Corporation said Wednesday night. Rudolph Schramm, deputy Nazi commissioner in Paris, yesterday told the German-controlled newspapers that future release of French prisoners of war will depend on Vichy's attitude towards Germany, it reported.

Replace Nazis In Iran Posts

ANKARA, Turkey, Aug. 20.—(Delayed) — (AP) — Informed sources said today Britain in a note had outlined to Iran (Persia) plans for replacement of Germans employed in key communications and industrial posts and proposed definite action be taken by Aug. 31.

Americans arriving from Baghdad in Iraq reported steady streams of British material and armored cars moving east in the last week toward the Iranian border.

Observers considered Britain was not disposed to take no for an answer and would move into Iran, as she took control in Iraq, to obtain a solid defence front in the middle east.

Previous British notes to the Iranian government were reported to have called unsatisfactory the expulsion of a few dozen German technicians in view of an estimated 2,000 or more employed in key Iranian industries.

Britain was described as seeking to replace the Germans with either Iranian or British technicians.

"Lost Unit" Of Red Army Slays Many Nazi Foes

MOSCOW, Aug. 21—(AP)—The army newspaper Red Star Wednesday told of a "lost unit" which had been encircled by the Germans, returning to the Soviet lines after a 45-day drive across Nazi-occupied territory on the central front.

The units commander, Lt-Gen. Ivan Boldin, said that in its march it had captured the staffs of two German regiments, destroyed 26 tanks, 1,040 cars and trucks, 147 motorcycles, five artillery batteries and one plane.

In its last battle before the final break through, he added, his detachment killed more than 1,000 Germans.

He was cut off from the main forces of the Red Army in the region of Minsk, he reported, and fought his way eastward until Aug. 11 when he joined Gen. Konev's army.

"Everyone," he said, "remembered my orders to shoot cowards on the spot. Everywhere we had a thousand volunteer helpers; peasants, women and children; we knew where success was assured for surprise attack."

One of the bravest of all his scouts, he added, was a nurse, Elizabeth Yershova, who, dressed as a peasant woman, fearlessly mingled with the Germans. On one occasion, the general declared, she prepared food for her hidden platoon on a stove on which a German soldier fried eggs for himself and his friends.

Labor In Empire To Be Consulted

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The Labor party's reconstruction committee will consult empire labor leaders—and possibly allied representatives here — in preparing labor's program for post-war Britain, it is disclosed.

Under Emanuel Shinwell, government critic in the House of Commons, a central labor committee has been established to carry out extensive investigations for formulating a distinctive socialist plan. At least 12 sub-committees will be formed to undertake specialized research.

The labor committee will conduct its investigations independent of the newly-established Conservative committee under R. A. Butler, president of the Board of Education.

Political observers explained labor was acting independently—carrying out the party executive's order to devise a socialist outline of reconstruction requirements — in order to have a program ready should any effort be made to end the life of the coalition government immediately the war finished.

Mr. King Goes To England

Prime Minister Mackenzie King is to be congratulated upon his decision to lend more vigorous support to the imperial war effort by a long-awaited personal visit to England.

His three-week visit, during which he will attend meetings of the British war cabinet, brings to two the number of Dominion prime ministers now sitting in at number 10 Downing Street.

Rt. Hon. Peter Fraser, prime minister of New Zealand, has been in London several weeks, and his scheduled departure was postponed a few days ago to permit further conferences on the tense situation in the Far East.

Until this week, it has appeared probable a third Dominion prime minister, Rt. Hon. R. G. Menzies of Australia, would be in London shortly. But political difficulties have arisen and it appears the plan will be changed.

At the urging of his cabinet, Mr. Menzies, who visited London earlier this summer, made preparations to return if Australia could participate directly in any decisions made with respect to Japan.

His political opponents, however, are insisting that in going to London he should relinquish the premiership and act as the British capital as a special plenipotentiary of the Commonwealth. This Mr. Menzies refused to do.

Mr. King's arrival in Britain leaves South Africa the only Dominion whose prime minister has not visited London since war began.

The South African leader, Rt. Hon. Jan C. Smuts, has so far been too busy with military and political problems to accept Mr. Churchill's invitation.

Field Marshal Smuts visited Cairo in the spring to confer with General Wavell. A few days ago he was inspecting troops in Egypt. It is thought probable that he too may continue on to London to join in the imperial discussions.

The close participation of the responsible heads of the various imperial governments is a war development whose importance cannot be overestimated.

It is coming to be seen that the collaboration of war efforts is even more important than the effort itself.

If Mr. Churchill has found it necessary and important to talk personally with the head of a foreign state, how much more vital is it that he maintain personal contacts with those units of the Empire which are engaged as intimately as Britain in the winning of the war.

Conscripting Women

The British department of labor has warned the women of Britain that they will soon be conscripted for war work.

The department emphasized the acute shortage of man power and intimated that women up to 30 years of age will be called to national service within the next four months.

This increasingly serious shortage of man power shows the absurdity of believing that Britain does not require more men than she can secure within the British Isles to carry the war to a successful conclusion.

Perhaps the ridiculous assumption that Britain needs no more men is based on a gross misunderstanding of Mr. Churchill's famous statement, "Give us the tools and we'll finish the job."

Mr. Churchill has never intimated that man power is not part of those "tools" he requests. Indeed, the announcement that Britain will conscript women for war work makes it very clear, on the contrary, that man power is part of those desired "tools".

It would seem, at this stage, that a careful review of what Canada proposes to do in supplying man power to the war effort would be in order.

Nazi Exhibitionism

It may appear to be part of the romance of war that the Nazis should give safe conduct to a squadron of British planes to drop an artificial leg over the German lines for the use of legless Squadron Leader Douglas Bader who is held prisoner in a Nazi camp.

It isn't.

It may look like a revival of the gallant days of chivalry that the Germans should offer such generous treatment to a captured foe.

Don't be misled by it.

The Nazi Germans know perfectly well that they are held in utmost contempt by all decent soldiers for their ruthless method of fighting. And because this contempt irritates them, wounds their vanity and is a psychological liability in their plans to conquer the world, they are desperately anxious to create another impression.

So, without cost to themselves, they indulge this trifling gesture of gallantry which is not true gallantry at all but mere salesmanship.

In their more sentimental moments, which are fairly frequent, the Nazis like to think of themselves as knights in shining armor riding to bring the Pax Germanicus to the world. They like the rest of the world to think of them in that way.

So they offer this bit of typical Nazi exhibitionism to bolster up the preposterous idea.

It is impossible to connect generosity and gallantry with bombers of hospitals, killers of little children and old men, liars, thieves and oppressors.

They might make a thousand such theatrical gestures without causing anyone to forget the murder of British civilians.

Gallantry is completely foreign to their natures. You cannot think of gallantry and concentration camps in the same plane.

Generosity is unknown to them. Generosity is not compatible with the spirit that machine-guns the passengers from a sinking ship.

South Atlantic Air Ferry

The tremendous system of communications organized to ensure Britain the full benefits of American war production receives a notable addition in the South Atlantic air ferry service.

Together with existing shipping facilities, it represents for the Middle East a supply line comparable to the intricate North Atlantic system which keeps the British Isles supplied for war.

The official statement in Washington, announcing that the ferry service will be organized and operated by the Pan-American Airways System, emphasizes the fact that importance of "this direct line of communication between our country and strategic outposts in Africa cannot be overestimated."

To the United States, the term "strategic outposts" means Dakar. This West African bastion points dagger-like towards the Western Hemisphere. The possibility of the Germans occupying this area with the acquiescence of Vichy has been a constant nightmare for the American authorities.

For Britain, the new development means that when fighting is renewed in the Middle East, the air force is assured of a steady flow of bomber and reconnaissance aircraft not dependent upon sea transport.

Looking Backward

From The Bulletin Files

1891—50 Years Ago

Emile Griesbach, who was instrumental in settling a German colony at Gleichen last spring, visited Edmonton this week. He went out to the German colony in the Beaver Hills, and was delighted with their location. It is probable that a good many of the Gleichen colonists will move here.

Work will be commenced on the C. and E. hotel, South Side, as soon as the necessary material arrives. The building will be erected at the corner of Main and First streets, opposite the station.

A party of Salteaux Indians, who generally range in the country between the Battle and Saskatchewan rivers, are camped at Edmonton on their way to the Lesser Slave Lake to winter. The chief's name is Ki-an-de-wais. They are originally from the eastern part of Manitoba and are notable hunters, being not only self-supporting but prosperous. This band and the Jasper House Iroquois are the only Indians within treaty limits who are self-supporting. They are compelled to move about greatly as they clean out the game from any district in which they camp for a season.

1901—40 Years Ago

Willis Chipman, the engineer employed by the town to make an estimate of the cost of installing a waterworks system, came in from Toronto on Friday.

1911—30 Years Ago

London: British railway service has been badly demoralized by a general strike of employees.

Macleod: John Herron, Conservative nominee, states that if elected, he will vote for the reciprocity agreement.

The C.P.R. has placed orders for two new large steamers for the Vancouver-Hong Kong run.

Chicago: Oscar Brindley set a new altitude record for aviators on America, by soaring to a height of 11,000 feet.

1921—20 Years Ago

The board of trade excursions to Peace River and Vermilion Chutes starts on Thursday.

The Edmonton normal school opened Monday with an attendance of 130.

J. Handley will prospect to establish a coal briquetting plant in Edmonton.

1931—10 Years Ago

Toronto: Large scale placing of settlers in northern Ontario will be attempted as a way to combat unemployment evils.

Mayor Douglas announced that the city has authority to start a public works program of $750,000, under arrangement with the provincial and the Dominion.

Winnipeg: The federal five cent a bushel bonus on wheat will be paid to growers only, not to those who have bought grain.

Regina plans to spend $5,000,000 in a relief works program, and Winnipeg $33,000,000.

What Is The Real Hitler And What Is His Greatest Crime?

Nazi Leaders Are Hated Because They Are Incarnations Of Pure Evil

By HAROLD L. WEIR

We all have pictures in our minds of Hitler and Goering and Goebbels and Himmler. And perhaps, because we have all been subjected to the same emotional strains, those pictures are built upon a similar pattern.

Hitler appears on the screen of our fancy as a tense figure of furious anger. He is a screaming whirlwind of wrath. He is the incarnation of frenzied hate. In the Nazi pantheon, he is the god of violent death, the deity of destructive fury.

Harold L. Weir

Goering is the type of cold brutality, the beau ideal of the ruthless Prussian officer whose cruelty is the more terrible because it is completely without the warmth of hate. He is the remorseless, passionless juggernaut that crushes without emotion, without feeling and without thought.

Goebbels is the figure of spite. His instincts are petty and mean. He bites viciously in dark corners, like a rat. His violence is neither all-pervading, like Hitler's, nor magnificently casual, like Goering's. It has a treacherous quality to it. He is the kind that stabs treacherously in the back.

Himmler is still another type, the incarnation of the cruel night light. His is the malevolence that lives in darkness. Like the snake, he strikes without warning. There is just a slight rustle of the leaves; then the poison is entered, and Himmler is gone.

War Without Hate

These are the pictures we have built up in our minds of the four leading Nazis, the men who inspire the German nation to deeds of bloody violence.

They are probably false pictures because we are blinded by prejudices and dislike. And then, too, we are all a little mad—as men must be mad who wage war.

When we went into this war, we promised ourselves that we would try to remain sane and tranquil. There was even grandiloquent talk of a "war without hate."

But, of course, we haven't remained sane and tranquil because you can't retain those qualities and put a punch into your blows. Nor have we remained free of hate.

Thus, we see these Nazi leaders through jaundiced eyes.

We see lost sight of the Hitler who weeps over Wagnerian melodies. We are blinded to the Goering who pines over a dead wife. We forget that the Goebbels has been philanthropic and that Himmler is noted for his generosity and kindness to servants.

So I suppose when sanity and tranquillity return and when, in the years to come, Hitler is at some to be pitiful rather than menacing figures, we will say, as we did of the Kaiser, "They were not so dreadful, after all."

I should like to utter a caution about that.

The Real Hitler

The reasons for which we hate Hitler & Co., today are not, sadly enough. The things we hold against him will fade, in time, to no more than an unpleasant memory.

Our present hate, some years from now, will be regarded, with good-humored tolerance, as a frenzied extravagance.

For we will either call upon our tolerance—that amazing product of muddled thinking—to excuse Hitler's violence or invoke our Christianity to forgive it.

Either one will be dangerous and lunatic. For Hitler and his gang have committed sins that can never be excused and which Christianity expressly forbids us to forgive.

It is right to forgive our enemies, our personal enemies. It is not within our power to forgive the enemies of God.

This generation may forgive the sins committed against this generation. But only a mass meeting of all the people who have ever lived and who ever will live can forgive sins against the human race.

It is these kinds of sins that Hitler and Goering and Goebbels and Himmler have committed.

They must be forever hated because they have put themselves beyond the pale of human pardon.

What Is Evil?

We are accustomed to think of wrongdoing as a transgression of the Ten Commandments or of the elaborations worked out by the various churches.

It is possible to sin deeply and unforgivably without breaking a single one of the Ten Commandments. Satan, perhaps, would find the violation of these rules too elementary to be amusing.

The cardinal sin is pride. All evil springs from pride. Pride's first offspring is selfishness. And from selfishness derives every sin in the calendar.

Self-abnegation is the essence of Christianity. That is one of the reasons why the Crucifixion is an essential part of Christian doctrine.

Self-exaltation is the essence of evil. That is why the sin of Lucifer, the devil, is unforgivable. His sin was pride. And out of the selfishness of his pride have grown all the sins enumerated as such by Moses.

Self-exaltation is also Hitler's sin. It is why Hitler must forever be classed from the justifiable hatred of the world.

For Hitler's offence transcends all violations of the Ten Commandments. All outrages committed against the Ten Commandments. His evil is a deeper and a wider thing.

Like Lucifer, Hitler has challenged the authority of the Almighty. Like Lucifer, Hitler is to be forever hated.

Hitler may be killed, murdered and robbed and coveted. Such offences may be forgotten.

But it should never be forgotten that, with consummate evil, hideous pride and sublime selfishness, he deliberately endeavored to crush from the hearts of men that hope and faith and beauty which Providence had given them as an inalienable right for all time.

Inevitable End

We have various good material reasons for knowing that Hitler will be crushed.

The power of the British Empire and its friends and allies is greater than the power the Nazis can summon to their aid.

From the standpoint of military mathematics alone, it is demonstrable that sooner or later the Nazi machine must fail.

But this is not the only source of our confidence.

Should Britain fail, should America be devastated, should the whole world be laid waste by this grim curse of evil, the death sentence would hang no less heavily over Hitler's head because it is a law of nature that he should die.

He is doomed to destruction as surely as Lucifer is doomed to destruction, as surely as darkness rules and as surely as light swallows up the darkness.

All the forces of natural law, all the power of good and all the battalions of heaven fight against him.

Words Alone Will Not Secure Victory

U.S. Must Shed Blood In Defence Of Program Formulated By Two Leaders

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

LONDON.—(By Wireless)—The eight points jointly put forward by the Prime Minister of Great Britain and the President of the United States as a basis of world peace are a revolutionary document. Simple, axiomatic, economical of phraseology, they constitute a bill of rights for nations and for the people in those nations.

Dorothy Thompson

They offer no common political formula for all men, but recognize the rights of nations for any form of government they choose. Provided they do not seek to impose it upon their neighbors. They recognize that political differences are not incompatible with economic collaboration and that such collaboration, if it be not in the interests of all, must rest upon common standards of labor and social security.

The document again enunciates a common traditional policy of the English-speaking nations, freedom of the seas, and is thoroughly realistic in proposing to disarm aggressors while maintaining sufficient force to protect the aims enunciated until they are transformed into organization and practice.

We may presume also that the points were elaborated after a consultation with the governments of the British Commonwealth and the heads of governments in London of the nations overrun by Adolf Hitler. The eight points forestall any peace offensive that might be launched by Hitler should he succeed in breaking the resistance of Russia.

Generous And Realistic

By being generous, realistic and in harmony with the trends of the century toward national freedom, international economic collaboration and social and economic security they should appeal to all reasonable men in Germany, if any such are left in the unhappy prison of conscience and intelligence.

Yet, one is forced to ask, how are we going to achieve this world of reason and realism, of freedom and order that the points envisage? What are they—platitudes or a fighting, working creed? What are they for—propaganda or mobilization of the will?

One might well ask what right has the United States to propose such a program for the world unless she is willing to spend a fortune and shed blood and stake all upon its realization?

Against World Chaos

I write this from a country that for a year has held her finger in the dyke against world chaos. A year ago this country lost a war and the whole world was adrift in chaos and despotism and the end of all free nations and free men seemed to have come.

It lost a war but because in a moment of extreme exaltation and national renaissance over the miracle of Dunkirk it refused to recognize that fact. The picture today is very different.

Today from one end of Europe to the other revolution is brewing, the revolution of free and sane men, who hold on in hunger and desperation in the midst of daily imprisonments and executions, believing in a deliverer.

But Britain bears on her body the scars of a terrible year. Still free, still with all trade unions and institutions intact, the workers of Britain toil by their own agreement from 8 in the morning until 7:30 at night on limited and monotonous food.

The fortune of Britain, the economic, social and domestic lives of all the people have been thrown into the scale for a world which these eight points. There is not a person but has his most intimate domestic affairs radically rearranged by the exigencies of war, and only the spontaneous genius for affectionate and democratic co-operation that has sprung up in Britain under pressure, and the plan of recovering a lost cause has made it possible for President Roosevelt or anybody else even to dream of a world envisaged in those eight points.

They can be won with America; they hardly can be won without us. Nor can they be maintained in victory without a permanent close and brotherly collaboration between all parts of the English-speaking world—collaboration that includes a common naval defense; a common foreign policy and a common financial and economic policy, especially as regards the use and disposal of surplus commodities.

Nothing To Lose

The United States and the United Kingdom, with all the free dominions, have nothing to lose but their place in history, and they have a world to gain. They can become the spiritual point and liberators of the world, or continue to exist as secondary powers on the periphery of the great complex of Europe; Asia and Africa which are not three continents, but one.

But the United States cannot change the course of history by words. Freedom doesn't come cheap any more; that which is the most precious is the most costly; that which is the most costly is most worth the price.

But the price is not for the pusillanimous, but for the keen, generous, daring and brave.

So the eight points can be reduced to the question: Does the United States intend again to put on the mists of daily dimness down the gauntlet to history and make a bid for the future, or will she linger on in the futility of the last twenty as many?

Will we throw off the shackles we forged for ourselves, or help by lethargy to forge them for the rest of the world? Will we translate the Declaration of Independence and the Bill of Rights into a code for all and so create interdependence and security, or will we lose them for ourselves by refusing them to others?

I do not know the answer to this question. But I do know that the whole future of men on this planet hangs upon it.

The Gentle Huns

FROM "BERLIN DIARY," BY WILLIAM L. SHIRER

A word about something the Germans will shoot me for if the Gestapo or the military intelligence ever find these notes. I have been shocked at the way the German army in Belgium and France has been abusing the Red Cross sign.

The other day when we were within forty miles of Paris, we stopped at a big army gasoline dump to refuel our cars. Forty or fifty army oil trucks were drawn up under the trees of an orchard. Several of them were plastered with huge Red Cross signs. Many of the ordinary trucks with canvas tops which were being used to carry drums of oil had red crosses on their sides and roof, and indeed looked like Red Cross ambulances.

A German officer apparently noticed me taking in their shameless misuse of the Red Cross sign. He hurriedly bundled us into our cars and got us off.

Bomber As Big As A House

New American Machine Rides Easily Even When Firing Her Large-Sized Guns

By HENRY McLEMORE

AN ATLANTIC BASE—This correspondent is higher'n kite as he writes this. Higher'n two or three kites, to be truthful, because he is riding in a PBY Bomber as it moves majestically over the Atlantic at 200 miles per hour on patrol duty.

I can't tell you where I am, for two reasons. In the first place, I don't know. The Atlantic Ocean has few distinguishing landmarks. It looks the same all over to me. You know, blue, and a little salty, and all wrinkled up with ripples that have the same profile and fingerprint.

H. McLemore

In the second place, even if I knew where I were the Navy wouldn't let me tell you. A man with a hard face and lots of gold braid told me to keep my whereabouts to myself and he said it so vehemently that even if I were cast away on a desert island on this trip, I'd give the wrong address in writing home for help.

I am taking this trip because I want to get a working view of a sister plane of the one that tracked down the Bismarck and led the British ships in for the kill. The British have criticized some of the planes we have sent them, but the PBY, which they have termed the Catalina, has received nothing but praise.

Like A House

The PBY is about the size of a house that politicians like to be born in, big enough to have comfort but not large enough to have debts. It is between a big cabin and bungalow in size, and if parked on a corner lot would mark its owner as one who gave his family the comforts but not the luxuries.

The PBY is one of those planes that inspires confidence. You get in it with a feeling that you are coming back. It doesn't get off the water as fast as some of the other planes, but it digs in and feels deep down inside, as it cuts the water for a take-off, that it definitely is going to get up and that once up it will stay up. It may not have the pick-up of a gull but it has the dependency of a pelican, and that is what you want in planes and flights that sometimes last as long as 30 hours.

At the moment I am sitting in the machine-gun "Blister", near the tail of the ship. There is a gunner on my right and a gunner on my left. The Navy asked me not to tell you the caliber of the guns, so I will oblige by simply describing them as of about the same size that the tanks I saw at Fort Benning carried. And that they make a whack of a racket when fired. About two paragraphs ago (which may partially explain my jerky prose style) the gunners cut loose at an imaginary enemy for practice, and with the first outburst of rat-a-tat my first impulse was to drop to the floor and yell "Kamerad" or whatever it is that you yell when you are scared to death at 10,000 feet.

Rides Evenly

There was a sudden dive and the bombs on her wings swung from their racks and plummeted toward the sea.

During all this the PBY rode as steadily as a transcontinental transport, and even when the "battle" was at its height a hostess could have walked the length of the ship with a cup of chocolate for a passenger without fear of being thrown off balance.

To show a means of escape from enemy tormentors the PBY dropped down from her path in the stratosphere to within 25 feet of the ocean. She rode so close to the waves that I felt that I could lean from the gun "Blister" and drag my hands in the water as if I were riding in a rowboat. The big ship is safer near the water. At 25 feet no enemy fighter can get beneath her, and she is vulnerable only from above. Even if hit and badly hurt, she has only to sink a few feet to ride the waves.

We're heading home now. To what base I do not know. But I am keeping a sharp lookout for any port in reference at sea. After what happened last week, there is no telling who is meeting out here. Who knows but what tickets and all the filling station attendants are out here somewhere in the Atlantic on a secret conclave to think up another measure to increase gasoline consumption.

Picture Market

MANCHESTER GUARDIAN

The two days' sale of the pictures of the late R. P. Goldschmidt, of Didsbury, at Christie's, was supposed to give a key to picture values in these strange days when America is almost out of the market, the Continent is closed, and most art dealers are holding as much stock as they can finance.

The result was on the whole much better than expected, about £12,680 for 221 lots, which included no outstanding Old Masters or fashionable French Moderns. Turner's "Llangollen," a watercolor, £294, a small Corot oil, £241, and small Boudin oil, £115, and Rembrandt's etching "Christ Healing the Sick," £252, were the top figures.

The bargains were in the etchings and drawings, and some remarkable lots of three and four prints by etchers of high reputation went for a few pounds.

Lady Was Fitted

BIRMINGHAM MAIL

Many amusing stories could be told at the Lady Mayoress' Depot and at various Birmingham rest centres when questioned about the difficulties which sometimes arose in the clothing of exceptionally large or small people and "outsize" evacuees—despite the pains taken to obtain complete sets of clothes in every reasonably possible range of fittings. But a case instanced recently by Lady Barrow, head of the W.V.S., could hardly be bettered.

It was that of a woman of "rather exceptional proportions" who, bombed out of her bed, left nothing but her wear. Everything was forthcoming from local stocks except a skirt. Not even the resources of the depot supply were equal to that requirement.

In desperation the local workers turned to the men's clothes, and there they found a pair of plus fours, part of a parcel sent by a nobleman of generous build. The waist measurement was right, and as there was much more length than was needed a skilful needlewoman cut down the garments, creating a pair of skirts of excellent tweed which not only met the victim's immediate need but pleased her.

GLENDON

Bishop Barfoot Visits Glendon

Rt. Rev. W. P. Barfoot, M.A., D.D. Anglican Bishop of Edmonton, paid his first official visit to Glendon ever the weekend. On Saturday he visited the Women's Auxiliary at the home of Mrs. Maurice Destrube. On Sunday morning he confirmed Mrs. Adolph Lotzberg, Miss Daisy Bromley and Miss Betty Leach at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Leach.

He then proceeded to the church of St. John the Baptist, Rife, where he administered holy communion and baptised privately, Margaret Claire Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hill of Rife, and Catherine Jean Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Smith of Rife.

Lunch was served in the Rife school house to give parishioners a chance to meet the new Bishop. After lunch he went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Johnston where he confirmed their two youngest children Billy and Margaret.

First Wheat For Trochu District Now Delivered

First load of new wheat in the Trochu district was delivered recently by Otto Haller, prominent East Trochu farmer.

The load proved splendid grain, grading No. 1 Northern and weighing 63½ pounds to the bushel. Mr. Haller estimates that the field will yield nearly 35 bushels per acre.

This is the earliest delivery date for new wheat in this district for several years. Rain halted threshing Saturday and no further deliveries have been made.

With The Men In Uniform

Home on 14 days' leave from the R.C.A.F. training station at New Brunswick, LAC. Wilson Coen, 24, son of Mrs. John Morgan, Hines Creek, near Fairview, was guest of honor at a "farewell" for him in the Hines Creek hall, Monday.

Ten months ago, LAC. Coen enrolled with a youth training program sponsored by the government and was given mechanical training at Calgary. His progress was rapid and his marks were high.

When graduating he was asked his choice of airport for further training, which was Claresholm in southern Alberta. His marks were the highest in the class and he acknowledged was given a "B" rating and sent to New Brunswick where in time his senior officers have asked him to become an instructor.

Chris. Troye of the Royal Canadian Signal Corps, spent a few days on leave in Glendon last week.

Chief Petty Officer Harold C. Bourne, R.C.N., recently surprised relatives and friends of the Dayland district by returning for a visit home after an absence of nine years. In this time he has had enough experiences to fill a couple of books, including the "Battle of Dunkirk." He left Dayland to spend the remainder of his leave period on the west coast.

North Newshound Nicks Nibblers: Not Nervous Now

Green Island summer resort, 14 miles south of here, attracts many Fairview residents to its warm waters on Sundays for swimming and an open-air eating.

A Fairview newspaperman, while enjoying himself Sunday afternoon, appeared to lose his "nippers" in tap feet of water. His many dives failed to retrieve his teeth that day.

For aid he went to the local tinsmith, who constructed a pipe four inches in diameter and seven feet long with a glass on the end, to salvage the loss of teeth. After taking it down to the river and probing the depths, it was found that water seeped through into the homemade inverted periscope and thus rendered it no good.

A longer pipe will be made and the glass used to see through, will be held in place with a rubber gasket to insure no seepage of water into the instrument. The gadget will be tested in a Fairview dam.

Plan Service For Rev. David Rundle

District Methodists and Presbyterians are planning a joint centennial service here on September 9 in honor of Rev. David Rundle, pioneer western missionary who visited here 100 years ago, and worked among the Indians at the trading post.

He came up the river from Fort Edmonton to Rocky and when his work here was finished, he went overland to Banff. Mt. Rundle at Banff is named in his honor.

Following a service in the Memorial church here, an open air public service will be held at the site of the old fort, where two stone chimneys remain, and where the Historic Sites Society has erected a cairn in honor of David Thompson, who wintered here 40 years before the missionary arrived.

Eden Broadcasts Good-Will Message To Turk People

LONDON, Aug. 21—(CP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden Wednesday broadcast a message of encouragement and goodwill to Turkey on the occasion of the opening of the Smyrna fair, the British Broadcasting Corporation said last night.

"Opening of the fair in wartime and the inclusion of a British pavilion proved that Britain and Turkey shared confidence in the future," Mr. Eden said.

France Organized On Medieval Lines

VICHY, France, Aug. 21—(AP)—Chief of State Marshal Petain yesterday definitely ordered reorganization of unoccupied France along medieval provincial lines.

He instructed the national council, charged with the reorganization, to create virtually autonomous provincial regimes, ruled by governors whose authority and prestige would be incontestable.

The new setup, as outlined by the Marshal, carries out one of his favorite ideas of "centralized decentralization" or authoritative local governments subject to the central government only for general policies.

His letter told the committee the head of each province "Will be a governor, a high personality representing the chief of state." The provincial council, he said, will be a simple advisory body and "in no case shall it be transformed into a political assembly."

Air Mastery To Be Achieved In One More Year

LONDON, Aug. 21.— (CP) — Mastery in the air, as the first target at which Britain should aim in her struggle against the Axis powers, should be achieved in another year, the authoritative magazine Aeroplane predicted in a review of the first 100 weeks of the war in the air.

"Victory will rest on that foundation," the magazine said. "But we shall have to fight hard for it."

"One hundred weeks of war are over. Perhaps there are 100 more to come. Yet, with all the hardships and toil ahead of us, the tide is slowly turning in our favor as our striking power develops. We began the war with single-motor Fairey Battle and Tiger-Whitley bombers as our chief striking force. Today we have four-motor Stirlings, Halifaxes, Fortresses and Liberators, each capable of carrying far bigger loads far greater distances at far higher speeds. And there are better still to come."

NAZIS ADVANCE LESS

The article said that in proportion, the German power of attack had advanced far less since the war began. The Nazis started with Dornier 17B and Heinkel 111KB. Their chief striking offence still lies in these two types, with the addition of the Junkers 88 and a few Kuriers, which have not proved satisfactory in action. The new Heinkel 177 now is coming into service and is believed to have been in action against Russia. It is a four-motor type, but it has neither the operational experience nor the production facilities upon it which Britain enjoys in her newest types.

In fighters, too, Britain's superiority is more marked than ever.

The ME109F represents the peak of enemy development at present, but Britain's Spitfire Mk. V and the ME109F, and should not bother our newest Hurricanes and Spitfires, or still newer Typhoons and Tornados."

The Bristol Beaufighter, powerful long-range fighter, is seen as a "great contribution" both to Britain's striking power by day and the country's security at night.

Cruiser Voltaire Casualties Given

LONDON, Aug. 21—(CP)—Casualties aboard the armed merchant cruiser Voltaire, which the admiralty announced on May 3 to be overdue and presumed lost, comprised 73 killed, two who died of wounds, one who died and 190 who were prisoners of war, the admiralty disclosed Wednesday. Among the prisoners is temporary acting surgeon, Lt.-Cmdr. C. M. Fisher of the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve. The Voltaire, 13,301 tons, was a former passenger liner converted into an auxiliary cruiser.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Aug. 21—(CP)—Three fires broke out almost simultaneously Wednesday night in the Belfast Falls road industrial section.

All were extinguished before midnight, but flames six through two factories, the Ross spinning mill and the British Rayon Silk Corporation. The third blaze was at the Northern Spinning Corporation.

There was no official announcement on origin of the fires.

Enemy Document Reveals Orders To Agents Here

MONTREAL, Aug. 21—(CP)—Ernest Bevin, British Liberal member of parliament for Montreal Laurier, read in a broadcast address Wednesday a document which he said contained orders from an enemy government to its agents in Canada, and revealed with what "thoroughness and detail the secret plotting" was contrived.

The document, which he said was from "one of the Axis governments," was seized by Canada's intelligence services before the outbreak of the war, Mr. Bertrand said in his address, in which he discussed the Defence of Canada Regulations over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

ADDRESSED TO AGENT

Dated 1937, it was addressed to an agent working in a large Canadian city, said Mr. Bertrand, adding that it was the first time it had been made public.

The document began by urging the "agent" to "obtain as quickly as possible, details and exact particulars on all the most vulnerable points in Canada, with special reference to the maritime zones, the oil fields, the war industries and the mines." It said to "see to it that workers are placed in the most strategic points."

Mr. Bertrand said the papers gave instructions to "intensify the work among the professional, political, aristocratic and journalistic circles" and to "give the greatest encouragement to the pacifists and persuade them to make a combined attack against war, persuading them that we will never take up arms against the British Empire."

ELECTION CAMPAIGN

Another paragraph, he added, reads as follows:

"Special attention must be given to the electoral campaigns and especially to the federal election, with a view to eliminating those old members who are unconditionally faithful to the British traditions and principles. Create, arouse and foment discord, as much as possible, between the French Canadian and the Anglo-Saxon element."

After reading a paragraph which said that "agents" should abstain from taking part in undertakings which would reveal their work, Mr. Bertrand added:

"There has been criticism in certain quarters about the internment of enemy aliens and British subjects who had not shown sympathy for the new order. Do not forget that the first duty of the Axis' agents was to deny emphatically any connection whatsoever with Fascism or Nazism."

The defence of Canada regulations, said Mr. Bertrand, should be "looked upon as a war measure to protect the public, against the reveals of fifth column activity, rather than a penal statute to punish offences already committed."

Tommies To Know Why They Fight

LONDON, Aug. 21—(CP)—The war office launched a project Wednesday to tell the Tommies what they are fighting for.

The new educational scheme, providing for frequent talks by officers and movies and radio programs, envisages the distribution of a good soldier as "One who must know what he fights for and loves what he knows."

It deflates the attitude of commanders toward soldiers embodied in Tennyson's "Charge of the Light Brigade"—"Theirs not to reason why; theirs but to do and die."

In a pamphlet outlining the plan to educate the army on current events, policies and personalities, Sir John Greer Dill, chief of the imperial naval staff, wrote that "If the ill-informed or indifferent citizens is a menace to our national safety, so too is the soldier who neither knows nor cares why he is in arms."

Looking Over

TODAY we soar above the simplicities of baseball, the gridiron and Fistiana and give you a gander at what is cooking in psychological research.

Actually the whole kaboodle should be under the title: "What A Man Ought To Know". Dr. William Moulton Marston, one of the top-flight psychologists in the United States, has been conducting a series of emotional tests with girls in New York and has arrived at a few striking conclusions about the athletic type.

Dr. Marston gathered his data by having the girls see the horror film, "Dr Jekyll and Mr. Hyde". In this nightmare production, Spencer Tracey tosses off a cocktail that turns him into a grotesque fiend. The scenes in which this hideous monstrosity tries to woo beautiful Ingrid Bergman had the non-athletic gals groggy and ready to scream.

But not the girls who took part in sports. Instead of nervous fear, the scene produced fighting anger in them. The doctor sums up the athletes' reactions in the words of one of them. "I'd slug that bum before I'd take that from him," this Amazon announced.

Moonlight And Roses Are Out

WHILE the doctor doesn't exactly say so, he infers that the moonlight and roses technique is likely to be more amusing than devastating to a girl he can hit three for four in softball, do the 100 yards in 12 seconds or go 20 minutes on the basketball floor without a breather. Dr. Marston is inclined to believe that the direct, man-to-man approach is by far the best tactics with girl athletes.

It doesn't require much research to discover that the gals have completely lost the fine art of fainting that their grannies displayed on the slightest excuse when the boy they were interested in happened to be close enough to catch them. That art vanished with the bustle and two-piy petticoats.

The chaperone has also become extinct. The modern young Amazon would take it as a personal insult if it were suggested that she couldn't take care of herself and needed a chaperone.

Beware Of Her Right Cross

ACTIVE participation in he-man sports undoubtedly has had a lot to do with developing this new type of girl—a gal who walks with long, free stride, looks you straight in the eye and asks no condescension. Furthermore, she is likely to wallop you one on the chin if she feels like it.

Our constantly growing girls' sport apparently is creating a race of Amazons. They may be hard to handle at times, but I'll take them gladly in preference to the sickly, clinging-vine type. The point is your Amazon will never be able to put you in the domestic chain gang by telling you she simply hasn't the strength to wax the floor or wash up the dinner dishes. Another generation may even produce women quite capable of mowing the lawn, which will bring in the Golden Age of the Male.

THRELFALL BUILDS HEAVY LINE

Future Brightens For Winnipeg Bombers

Columbus Pros First Opposition

WINNIPEG, Aug. 21.—(BUP)—Osborne Stadium presents a busy scene these nights as Coach Reg Threlfall and his assistant, Bert Warwick, send their Bombers through extensive drills in preparation for the 1941 Western Conference schedule.

The Bombers are scheduled to play the Columbus Bulls, champions of the American Professional League on Aug. 28 and Sept. 1. While Threlfall isn't any too optimistic over his team's chance against this top flight professional outfit, he thinks his Bombers will give a good account of themselves.

The Columbus Bulls, who are to work out at Osborne Stadium in preparation for their encounters with the Bombers, are slated to play against the Regina Roughriders on Aug. 30.

The Bulls have on their roster a former Western Conference player, Bill Matheny. Matheny played one season for the Edmonton Eskimos and proved to be a standout running back.

BOMBER ROSTER IMPROVES

Meantime, the make-up of the Bomber line is improving over earlier turnouts. With added late arrivals, Bomber linemen of this year are just as large and capable as of former years. The trainer of the Bombers, checking the weights of some of his linesmen the other night, pointed out that only one man out of the probable starters in the line, was under the 200 pound mark, and that was end Frank Mulvey, who tips the scales at 175 pounds.

That should dim all any doubt about the Bomber's line for this year. Tried performers such as Mogul, Paschel and Roseborough have recently joined the team. Watchers now say if Vancouver or Regina backs think that they are going to have a soft thing this year they are due for swift disillusionment.

LANDER WILL PLAY

As if things weren't looking bright enough for the Bomber backfield, a fellow by the name of Jimmy Lander decided he would like to see a little more of the leather oval. Lander, you may recall, has been a standout back for the Regina Roughriders for a number of years. A week ago he said flatly he was through—but he apparently couldn't convince himself.

Things looked dark for awhile for the Bombers' chances of picking up an outstanding blocking back, after Kabat's departure for Vancouver, but it seems that Lander is just what the doctor ordered, as far as the Bombers' blocking back problem goes. It should also be remembered that Lander is a better-than-ordinary passer, and Threlfall more than likely will be able to use him in that capacity.

WELCOME ADDITION

Another welcome addition to the Bombers' backfield is Ken Preston who also comes from the Roughies. Preston looks like the man who will be able to fill the large gap left at the flanker position, when Jeff Nicklin joined the armed forces. The rest of the Bomber backfield is well known, and Friz Hanson, Andy Bieber, Wayne Sheley and Art Sievenson, look like they are in for a great year.

Coach Threlfall has some great freshman prospects, both for the line and backfield, and it is more than likey that many new faces and names will appear in the lineup before the season is very old.

Things around the Bomber camp look very bright right now. Winnipeggers are getting out their dollars, ready to bet that come the end of the season, the Grey Cup will be perched on Manager Joe Ryan's mantel again.

Greg Kabat Has New Coaching Job

VANCOUVER, Aug. 21.—(CP)—Greg Kabat, former Winnipeg Blue Bomber star, and new playing-coach of Vancouver Grizzlies, of the Western Football Conference was Wednesday signed by Brother Walsh, of Vancouver College, as director of all athletic activities at the school for the forthcoming year.

Kabat, who will also teach history and assist in training the cadet corps, was chosen after the college had contacted two other candidates. He will coach American football, basketball, ice hockey, boxing, track and baseball.

Ralph Henderson is well known to thousands of Edmonton football fans, for he played with Eskimos in the Western Conference during the fall of 1939. He is a brother of Arnold Henderson, prominent Edmonton athlete and high school teacher.

Missing

RALPH HENDERSON

VANCOUVER, Aug. 21.—(CP)—Ralph Henderson, well-known Vancouver basketball and football star, is missing on air operations, according to word received here Wednesday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Henderson, from the British air ministry.

PO. Henderson was serving as a navigator with the Royal Air Force bomber command. He had been in Great Britain since April.

Griffiths Holds Visitors Down To Six Safeties

MEDICO-WELDERS turned in a 10-2 win over Avery's Cafe of Lacombe at Kingsway Park on Wednesday night in the first game of the playoffs for the north Alberta men's intermediate softball title.

The balance of the three-game series will be played at Lacombe on Sunday with the winner meeting the south finalists for the provincial title.

Bill Griffith for the Welders gave the visitors only six hits and they were well spread out, while Lou Minkler of Avery's was replaced in the eighth when the winners were putting on their big run-getting show which netted five counters.

Harry Leggett, receiver for the Lacombe team made a very fine job of his particular chores. Harry, by the way has been considerable service with the Varsity Golden Bears, last winter being goal-keeper for the hockey team and he was also a member of last fall's great University football squad.

Lacombe took a two run lead in their first two sessions at bat. In the opening inning Jim Miles and Fred Stewart were both safe on errors and Lou Minkler's hit to left sent one run in.

In the second Ken Clift singled to left field, Padley Hill reached first on an error and Edgar Todd drove one out to right for another run.

Welders went ahead in the second. Benny Klingsopon tripled and scored on Jim Brault's fielder's choice. George Berlanquet singled and Norm. Stewart doubled and after Sunny Wheatfield got in a fine drive, finally made home plate for the third run on a wild pitch and error.

In the third Art Dalmar doubled and Pete Yanew followed with a single for another run and in the seventh Wheatfield hit for two bases after Stewart was safe on an error. Bill Griffith's fly to centre brought in Stewart.

In the eighth the Medicos really went to work on the Avery chuckers. Yanew, Klingspoon, Stewart and Jim Braull all singled, Darry Ball doubled and Berlanquet tripled to net five more counters. Lacombe finally shut off the scoring with a smart double play.

On Whirly's back is Pinky Brown, exercise boy, who Owner Warren Wright favored as Whirly's pilot in the Travers. Dodgers Vs. Arrows

Title Ball Tonight

Tonight brings the start of Edmonton's little world series baseball, when Cal Pickle's Dodgers and Vic Horner's Arrows clash in the opening game of the best of seven series for the championship of the Central Alberta Baseball League.

The game starts at Renfrew Park at 8 p.m. sharp, starting time having been moved up so that the full nine innings can be played before dark.

The Dodgers staged a whirlwind finish to come from last place in the league standing, eliminate Ponoka and finish on top, and the result is that they enter the series slight favorites in the betting. Either Ralph Morgan or Tommy Brant will be the Dodgers' starting hurler.

Billy Lupul or Eddie Watkins will be the choice of the Arrows to pitch the all-important opener.

New Champ Crowned

Dave Castilloux Awarded Canadian Welter Honors

MONTREAL, Aug. 21.—(CP)—Dave Castilloux, young French-Canadian from Montreal, Wednesday night earned recognition as Canadian welterweight champion by gaining a 10-round decision over Maxie Berger, another Montrealer and defending champion. Castilloux weighed 137¼ and Berger, 145¼.

It took six rounds for Castilloux to take any advantage over Berger. Until then Berger fought his way out of everything Dave had to offer.

Castilloux began to use his hard left in the second half of the bout and by the eighth round had punched a deep two-inch cut into Berger's right eye.

By the time the final round got under way, Berger's face was covered with blood and Castilloux poured left hooks to his chest and face. Maxie put up a fight in the last few seconds but the final bell dashed all his hopes.

In a semi-final bout, Danny Webb, 121½, of Montreal, gained an easy eight-round decision over Eddie Petrin, 12, also of Montreal. Petrin's Canadian bantamweight title was not at stake.

Swim Titles At Stake

Western Championships At South Side Pool Friday

Western Wrigley mile championships, the premier inter-provincial swim events each year for Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia are being held at the South Side pool on Friday night commencing at 8 o'clock.

These competitions alternate annually amongst the four western provinces, this year being Alberta's turn and, judging by the entries, the event promises to produce some spectacular swimming.

Heading the list of outsiders are Ethel Gilbert and Doug. Nolnslein of Winnipeg. Miss Gilbert, in addition to being the Canadian 220-yard champion, has held the western mile title for the past two years and has been the Wrigley mile winner in Manitoba for four years now in succession.

Doug. Nolnslein is the present Manitoba Wrigley mile champ and there is also a possibility that Junior Rice of Port Arthur may also be here.

Jack Graves of Calgary will also be a competitor.

George Valpy, Abbe Stewart-Irvine and Joyce Williams will carry Edmonton's colors in the mile events and will furnish plenty of opposition for the visiting aquatic staff.

Valpy will be defending his western Canadian title and is expected to repeat. George also won the Wrigley mile at Sylvan Lake this summer.

Miss Stewart-Irvine, in addition to taking the mile event at Sylvan Lake, has been a consistent winner at other distances this year. Joyce Williams was the runner-up at Sylvan. There is just a chance, too, that J. Warner, of Kelowna, B.C., who took the mile at Seattle this summer, may be a contestant.

The ban on junior gatherings forced the committee to cancel all junior events planned for the program, but special exhibitions are being arranged both in swimming and diving.

Bob Matheson, of the West End, and holder of the Alberta 50-yard title, Ed. Donald, 220-yard provincial champion and Lila Robertson, senior Alberta diving champ, Jack Flavin and Bernie Clarke, will all be taking part in the program.

Special events are being arranged by Royal Canadian Volunteer Naval Reserve and Royal Canadian Air Force

Bob Feller Refuses To Ask For Army Service Deferment

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The disclosure that pitcher Bob Feller has been spending about $7,500 a year to provide medical treatment and travel for his ailing father led to speculation Wednesday night that Cleveland Indians' strikeout king might be deferred from army service.

Noting that Philadelphia Athletics' Benny McCoy was deferred under a presidential ruling that selectees should not be forced to use savings to support dependents, the Cleveland News said Feller, 22, has direct precedent for seeking deferment."

Feller who is awaiting classification by his selective service board, had only this comment: "I have never asked for deferment and I won't ask—that is purely in the hands of the draft board."

C. C. Slapnicka, vice president of the Indians, stated: "If I have a correct interpretation of the McCoy ruling, then Bob Feller's status is more than a borderline case. However, before any action is taken in this matter, we will give it considerable more study."

The News summarized the $45,000-a-year pitcher's situation this way:

SERIOUSLY ILL

Because of poor health, father William Feller is no longer able to make his Iowa farm a paying proposition. He is urgently in need of medical treatment and year-around sunshine and must spend some time each year at the Mayo clinic. His physicians insist he must spend the winter in Florida.

Bob's mother has suffered recurrent headaches since she was hit by a foul ball in Chicago two years ago. He also has a young unmarried sister. Bob never has kept a large cash balance on hand and if the army took him, he would be forced to turn in insurance policies for their present value.

Pirate Twirler Draws Suspension

BROOKLYN, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Joe Sullivan, lefthanded pitcher for Pittsburgh Pirates, was fined $200, suspended for 30 days and sent home by Manager Frank Frisch Wednesday for breaking training.

Sullivan started the first game of Tuesday's doubleheader and was knocked out in the first inning after giving seven runs.

His suspension left Pittsburgh with only six pitchers who are able to play.

Sagging Army Needs To Be Taught Its Purpose

NEW YORK.—We're in a pretty dangerous state in this land at the moment between our administration's warlike gesture and the reaction of our public and our army to anything even approximating war. As a nation we're officially talking one way and personally reacting another.

In the first place, the only sensible way to proceed if you're preparing to put everything you are and have, to the test of flame and flood is to prepare thoroughly to cope with the worst possible contingency.

Whether it's "wonderful," "efficient," "lucky," "diabolical" or a combination of all these, and more, the Nazi military might is a tremendously fierce and formidable machine. The only way it can be stopped is to build another machine strong enough to meet it with brute force and beat the life out of it.

That's the assignment we're flirting dangerously with, and what are our belligerent assets? A fine navy, not large enough to hold two oceans, but loyal, solid, well trained and on its way. Until this hasn't been a naval war except in isolated and occasional instances.

An air force that's apparently coming along although still far short numerically of anything such as we'd need in even an effort to protect this hemisphere.

An army that's completely out of the picture as yet, that has raked rocks and manicured its finger nails for nearly a year, growing bored, disillusioned and disgusted because it's had nothing to train with, and apparently no very clear conception of why it was called together anyhow.

YOUTH CAN'T BE FOOLED

I FIGURE to know as much about American youth as any man of middle age in this country. I've spent 20 years roving the entire nation in the strain that is "youth—sports. I've seen 'em in victory and defeat, on the field, in the locker room, the fraternity house, at the prom, in church, and on dinners. I've seen them argue, heard them curse. We have certainly seen them cry. I've sat with them singly. I've made what passed for speeches to countless gatherings of them from Boston to California, from Notre Dame to Alabama. I've had occasion, by the infallible process of trial-by-error, to discover what appeals to them in the way of anecdotes, narrative, inspirational references.

I know American youth is sound and clean and loyal and enthusiastic. But it can't be fooled. Explain something to it, give it all the picture and then something to work with and it will go with you all the way.

That hasn't been done with this alleged army of ours, either with the army itself, or with the folks who love it and own it. The administration has not yet even come to selling this war. It has talked in parables and moved in secrecy. It has assumed a blind mass following, which hasn't developed. The American nation is used to enlightenment. It's used to the facts. It likes to make up its own mind. Especially is that true of the kids.

These kids in the camps have been sitting around going crazy because, by and large, they've had nothing to do but shuffle into the drills without guns and listen to dull lectures from out-moded textbooks. Even those outfits, and there are a few, that are completely equipped haven't done enough actual firing in ten months to know even what it sounds like. This is because they haven't, as yet, any ammunition. Others haven't yet had a weapon even to look at.

THEY COULD BE TAUGHT

GRANTED that maybe it was a major mistake to drag all these young men away from homes and jobs before there was anything for them to do, or anything to do it with, a smarter executive system would at least have occupied their time with some interesting information concerning what it is they've been called together about. The history of the Nazi movement, where it came from, how it operates, what it seems to be trying to do, outlined by competent authorities, even authorities from amongst the officers, could have been gone into.

Pictures, movies, diagrams, even the reading of books, or selected passages from books written by eye-witnesses and these have been plenty, could all have been worked into the pattern. In this country, somewhere, is that German propaganda movie, "War in the West." This shows the German panzers and Stukas knocking French resistance to pieces. Another showing the slaughter of Poland is on this side, too.

After proper mental preparation, these ought to be "required reading" or could have been used as such. All this would be background information, education, preparation. If a fellow's expected to fight something, he ought to know all there is to know about it.

And if this sounds silly, stand advised that it's the very system the football coaches use. As they prepare for each game, they tell their squad all about the other team. They show slow movies of it in action. They analyze its strengths and weaknesses, single out its stars and bear down in such fashion that when game day arrives, the home team knows as much about the visitors as it does about its own side. It knows what to expect, what to prepare to try to take, where, if anywhere, the enemy figures to be weak. Above all, it's in on the story. It isn't shooting blind, or marching in the dark.

Not only the army, but the American public, needs a lot of that right now. The morale of the army is low, but the morale of the public, so far as any war is concerned, practically doesn't exist. Some sort of agency had better start to sell it fast if we're in any immediate danger of any shooting participation.

Pirate Fumble Brings Victory

By JUDSON BAILEY

BROOKLYN, Aug. 21.—(AP)—This Brooklyn club is not called "Destiny's Dodgers" for nothing. Destiny descended on Ebbets Field Wednesday and gave the Dodgers a 7-6 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates on an error by Bob Elliott with the bases loaded in the ninth inning.

Brooklyn scored four runs in the first inning and Pittsburgh piled right back with six in the third, three of them on a homer by Elliott. Then Pete Reiser's fifth home run tied the score 6-6 in the seventh.

With one out in the ninth Billy German knocked an easy grounder to second baseman Frank Gustine, who booted the ball. Reiser was walked and both runners moved up a base on a wild pitch. This forced an intention pass from Dolph Camilli to load the bases. Joe Medwick filed out and then Harry Lavagetto raised a swerving fly to right and Elliott ran in and caught the ball, then dropped it.

CARDS TAKE TWO

BOSTON, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The surging St. Louis Cardinals took both ends of a National League doubleheader from Boston Braves Wednesday and added Terry Moore to their long hospital list when the Red Bird centre fielder was felled by a Boston pitch in the opening game.

Ernie White chalked up victory No. 15 in the opening game when he shut out the Braves 2-0 and Howard Pollett made his major league debut in the afterpiece with a four-hit, 3-0 triumph. Moore had a 3-1 count at the plate when one of left-hander Art Johnson's serves hit him behind the left ear. The Card captain lay unconscious at the plate until an ambulance was rushed to the park to take him to hospital.

Dr. Edward J. O'Brien, club physician, said Moore suffered a brain concussion and that X-ray examination would be taken today. He will be lost to the Cardinals for at least a week.

PAIR FOR REDS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Johnny Vander Meer and Elmer Riddle turned in masterful pitching performances Wednesday to lead Cincinnati Reds to twin victories over Philadelphia Phillies. Vander Meer pitched a three-hitter to win the first game 5-0 and Riddle gained his 15th triumph had a 3-0 triumph.

Frank McCormick's 11th homer of the season gave Riddle an early working margin in the afterpiece.

American League

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Despite two home runs by Ted Williams, the leading hitter in the junior league, Boston Red Sox lost a doubleheader to St. Louis Browns Wednesday, 11-5 in the first game and 4-3 in a 10-inning second game.

Williams smashed out three home runs in Tuesday's divided twin bill and now has a total of 34 for the season.

In the opening game, the teams got 12 hits apiece and of the collection 12 were for extra bases.

The Browns slammed Ol' Mose Grove out of the box with five runs in the first inning and added three against Mickey Harris in the second. Harland Clift's homer with a man board and doubles by Walt Judnich and Cullenbine made it 11 runs.

INDIANS IN TAIL SPIN

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The fourth-place Cleveland Indians kept spiralling downward Wednesday losing their seventh straight games as Washington Senators topped them 6-3. After limiting the Naps to four hits in eight innings, Southpaw Al Smith yielded three walks and as many singles to let in four runs in the ninth.

CHISOX STILL HOT

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Chicago White Sox precision pitching carried the second-place Chicagoans to their third straight shutout victory over shy of an American League record, and their ninth consecutive victory Wednesday as Johnny Rigney blanked Philadelphia Athletics 5-0 on three scattered singles.

The triumph gave the Sox 16 victories in their last 21 games.

Only two A's got to third base and only four others to second in the series, which was started with twin shutouts by Thornton Lee and Johnny Humphries. With their first three hitless innings in their previous game Saturday also fans runs. The Sox hurlers now have 36 of scoreless innings.

BRIDGES BLANKS TANKS

DETROIT, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The veteran Tommy Bridges outpitched Ernie Bonham in a 10-inning thriller Wednesday as the Tigers nosed out the Yankees 1-0 to take the rubber game of the three-game American League series.

Bridges limited the Bombers to two hits and fanned nine. Charlie Keller singled in the first inning for the only clean blow off the lean right-hander. Johnny Sturm's single in the ninth was the Infield variety.

The Yanks were playing without Joe DiMaggio, who suffered a sprained ankle in Tuesday's contest.

Larry French Goes To Dodgers

BROOKLYN, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Brooklyn Dodgers announced Wednesday they had acquired Larry French, veteran southpaw pitcher, from Chicago Cubs on waivers and that he would report to Manager Leo Durocher in the afternoon.

The addition of French, who won five and lost 14 for the Cubs, gives the Dodgers a left-handed hurler considered necessary by Durocher in the drive for the pennant.

Gunners Show Hunting Form

Good shooting marked the Tuesday evening meeting of the Edmonton Gun club. A possible was scored by F. Tull, and shooting in all classes was very keen.

Members are now competing for best results to be in form for the annual trap shooting tournament which will be held again early in September.

With favorable weather prevailing it is expected that in the next few weeks the trap shooting on Tuesday and the skeet shooting on Friday evenings will be well attended and provide a welcome opportunity to many hunters to have a few practice rounds before the opening of the season.

Veteran Drivers In Grand Circuit Fined, Suspended

MILWAUKEE Wis. Aug. 21.—(CP)—Tommy Berry, veteran trainer-driver of Lexington, Ky., was suspended for six days and fined $25 and Sep Palin, Indianapolis veteran, was handed a $25 fine for illegal withdrawal of horses from grand circuit harness races Wednesday at the Wisconsin State Fair grounds.

Berry was set down for a heat for beating the barrier the first heat of the 2:10 pace with Signal Hanover. On the second score for the same heat Palin was among three others set down for beating the barrier. After a substitute driver was set down Palin drew Doctor Baker illegally and was fined. When the heat did get under way, Brookdale, with Eddie Havens up for Harry Whitney, repeated his first-heat triumph in 1:59 3-4, fastest mile of the grand circuit meeting here. Brookdale won the first heat in 2:02 1-4 and repeated in the third heat with a 2:00 winning performance.

Unkie Walt, owned by Gov. Julius P. Heil and the Bartel brothers of Milwaukee, staged an upset in the 2:08 trot, winning the first two heats with Guy Gripper up. Times were 2:03 and 2:05. Bravo, driven by Harry Whitney, took the third heat in 2:04 1-4.

Canada's area is more than 27 per cent. of the total area of the British Empire.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Slight recovery filtered into parts of Thursday's stock market but many issues were obscured by mild selling shadows. While negligible plus signs were fairly well distributed at the close, small declines were plentiful and numerous stocks held at yesterday's final marks.

Exports Fail To Aid Wheat Price

WINNIPEG, Aug. 21.—(CP)—Reports of export business in Canadian wheat estimated at about 1,000,000 bushels during the past two days, made from stocks located at Georgian Bay ports, failed to rouse buying interest in the wheat futures pit on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, and influenced by weakness at Chicago, mill traders made only a few purchases as prices dropped ⅜ cent, to 74⅛ for October, 76⅛ for December, and 80⅜ cents a bushel for May futures.

It reported no change in the situation but the Red Army newspaper, Red Star, said Russian forces pressing their counter-attack in the central sector had recaptured several towns yesterday, seizing 19 field guns, many infantry arms, 1,500 shells and much other equipment. At one point alone, it said, the Germans left more than 200 dead.

CUT OFF NAZI TANKS

Dispatch to Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, said the German 94th Infantry Division had lost three-fourths of its manpower (about 11,000 men) in a 10-day battle in the Ukraine.

The Germans penetrated the village of "E" under a protective artillery barrage, it said, but were crushed by Russian infantry which cut off their rear tanks and slashed into the flanks of the Nazi division.

One regiment was destroyed, two others lost 75 per cent of their men and a fourth lost more than 1,000 dead, the dispatch said.

Participating in Voroshilov's statement were Andrei Zhdanov, a member of the Presidium and secretary of the Leningrad party committee, and P. Popkov, chairman of the Leningrad City Soviet.

Telling residents; "The enemy will never set foot in our beautiful city," Voroshilov, long a Soviet hero, announced new detachments of the national militia are being formed.

"STAND FIRM TO END"

As German bombers began raiding the Baltic ship-building and industrial centre in daylight attacks, the marshal told residents to let "neither bombing nor other difficulties" interrupt preparation for aerial and land defence.

"Stand firm to the end. At the risk of our lives we will fight the enemy and destroy him. Death to the bloody Fascist German robbers," he said.

Military reports placed the nearest Nazi troops approximately 75 miles from Russia's second largest city as the Finns and Germans drove down from the north and Nazi columns moved up in the areas of Kingisepp, 75 miles southwest, and Novgorod, 100 miles to the south.

But in all these areas, said Russian accounts, as well as in the Staraya sector, 150 miles southeast of Leningrad, Soviet troops were forcing the Germans to fight step by step.

(Reports which the Associated Press was unable to confirm circulated in Eurorpean listening posts that the Dnieper River dam, near Dnieperopetrovsk, had been opened or blown up by the Russians to halt the German Ukraine drive.)

Moscow was raided for the second successive night before midnight, but the German planes were reported turned back by Moscow's anti-aircraft defences.

Voroshilov, in an appeal like that of the rulers of Madrid in the Spanish civil war, and of Warsaw in the German attack, sought to tap the fighting power of city dwellers to defend their homes.

"The enemy is attempting to penetrate into Leningrad," he said. "He wants to destroy our houses, our factories and workshops, to rob the people and to shed the blood of innocent victims, to kill the peaceful population and wreck the freedom of our country.

"WON'T BE FULFILLED"

"With our own hands we have built the powerful factories and workshops of Leningrad, the remarkable buildings and gardens and they will not fall into the hands of the German robbers.

"It is not the first time that the people of Leningrad are repelling the advancing enemy and this time once more the dastardly plans of the enemy will not be fulfilled."

Telling inhabitants they must not be caught unaware, the marshal called upon city dwellers to follow the example of the soldiers.

"Women: Inspire your husbands, your sons and brothers," he said.

"Young men: Join detachments for defence.

"Workers: Leningrad will need more and more arms so as to ensure men at the front sufficient arms and ammunition.

"Workers and engineers of Leningrad: Work for defence of the country, defence of your own city with even greater selfishness, with no respite and with the full knowledge of responsibility of the decisive part played by production."

WILL STOP ENEMY

He warned the city that in addition to bombing the Germans have in store "yet more abominable measures" and he called for aerial and land defence.

"Comrades of Leningrad! Today there is no limit to your organization, to your bravery and power of destroying, to your capacity for holding out against the Fascist curse.

"We can and will stop the bloody horde which is threatening the Soviet people."

General Motors Official Gets Felicitations

Still a youthful personality with a keen enthusiasm for his job and a cordial word for all who work with him, C. E. "Charlie" McTavish, director of parts and service for General Motors Products of Canada Limited, Oshawa, is receiving the warm congratulations of his many associates as he looks back over a span of 25 years with the company.

The occasion was officially marked by fine tributes from R. S. McLaughlin, president of General Motors, and W. S. Roberts, vice-president and general manager, who referred to Mr. McTavish's fine record of loyal and untiring service, while the handsome presentation made by Mr. McLaughlin reflected the high esteem in which "Charlie" is held by all his associates.

JOINED IN 1916

An old-timer as automotive executives go, Mr. McTavish's record extends back even beyond 1916, when he joined General Motors, to years of service in carriage trade, training ground for many outstanding men in the motor business today. He has touched all positions on the upward ladder, from office boy to his present key position which entails the added responsibility associated with General Motors' vital war-time role as a contributing organization in the "arsenal of democracy".

When he first joined the company, Mr. McTavish recalls that there were only 123,000 motor vehicles registered in Canada, whereas today there are approximately 1,600,000. He also referred to the speedy and dramatic transition which had taken place in the General Motors' organization to meet the demands of an extensive war-time program which included the building of all types of military vehicles and other equipment for the Empire armies on the fighting front, while maintaining an adequate supply of motorized units to maintain and facilitate the steady flow of business and vital services on the home front.

Moscow Meeting Early Next Month

By JOHN A. REICHMANN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(BUP)—The Moscow conference of British, American and Russian experts to make long-range plans for a complete victory over Nazi Germany, will be held early in September, diplomatic sources said today.

The conference was proposed by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

These sources indicated the date of the conference has been set but is being kept a secret, as are the travel plans of the British and American representatives.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull has declined to discuss details of the meeting, referring all questions to the White House. Some sources said Harry Hopkins, lend-lease coordinator, is formulating the details of American participation in the conference.

Mr. Roosevelt and the prime minister decided to propose the conference after hearing the report of Hopkins on his visit to Moscow where he made a hasty survey of Russian needs.

Western Open Battle Starts With 150 Field

VANCOUVER, Aug. 21.—(CP)—A field of more than 150 top-ranking Canadian and United States professional and amateur tournament golfers started their three-day march across the Shaughnessy course battlefront here in quest of the $1,000 western Canada open golf championship.

Each contestant will shoot 18 holes Thursday and Friday and 36 on Saturday.

A total of 36 out-of-town entries will provide stiff competition for local golfers and a large number stand a good chance of lifting the title won last year by Vancouver's Fred Wood.

Frisch's Umbrella Adds To Overhead

BROOKLYN, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Frankie Frisch's vaudeville act of raising an umbrella during the second game of Tuesday's rainy doubleheader with the Dodgers cost the Pittsburgh manager $50.

Frisch received notice of his first fine of the year from Predisent Ford Frick of the National League just before Wednesday's game between the two clubs.

"Now I am mad," said Frisch as he tore the telegram into pieces.

Feature At Coast To Chief Ritchie

VANCOUVER, Aug. 21.—(CP)—Chief Ritchie romped home ahead of Sandworth and Streakworth in the fifth and feature race of a twilight racing card at Brighouse Park Wednesday.

Chief Ritchie paid $11.90, $7.45 and $4.65 on a $2 pari-mutuel ticket.

Bruntsfield ridden by Hedley Woodhouse turned in the surprise of the day in the second race, paying $31.00, $11.70 and $10.15.

The first daily double of Legato in the first heat to Bruntsfield in the second paid the highest daily double of the past two weeks, $273.15, while the second double of Master Beau in the sixth to East Calling in the seventh returned $43.70.

Mimico 16-8

TORONTO, Aug. 21—(CP)—The Mimico Mountaineers last night brought out their heavy artillery in the closing quarter of their match with the Etobicoke Indians to register a 16-8 victory in a senior series Ontario Lacrosse Association engagement.

WASAGAMING, Man., Aug. 21.—John Ritchie, Vancouver, teamed with Mrs. Helen Rushton, Port Colborne, Ont., in the mixed doubles of the western Canada hard court tennis championships here Wednesday, to defeat Kay Johnson, Saskatoon and Len Turner, Regina, 6-2, 6-0.

Calgary Chinooks Defeat Olds 19-7

CALGARY, Aug. 21.—(CP)—Securing a seven run lead in the first inning, Calgary Chinooks went on to defeat Olds Harolds 19-7 at Mewata Park Wednesday afternoon to win the southern Alberta senior girls softball championship and qualify to oppose Army and Navy Club of Edmonton in the provincial finals, first games of which will be played in Calgary next Saturday.

Marj Wilson, former Gleichen hurler, was on the mound for Chinooks and held Olds to seven hits, while the locals solved the offerings of Helen Nicol for 11. Chinooks only had three errors compared to 11 for the northern girls.

BONDHOLDERS TO MEET GOVERNMENT

Alberta Debt Refund Plan To Be Discussed Sept. 26

$5,803,230 Maturities Due In Next 3 Months Province Report Shows

Originally scheduled for August 26, meeting of the joint committee of the provincial government and bondholders has been deferred, probably until September 16, Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, declared Thursday. The committee is to discuss ways and means of refunding the provincial public debt of approximately $147,000,000.

At the same time, renewed interest was taken in the meeting in view of the fact that provincial bond maturities totalling $5,803,230 fall due in the next three months.

Mr. Low stated that the bondholders had requested the opening of the conference so that their representation on the joint committee could be determined.

The province will be represented by its treasury board which includes Mr. Low, Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health and in charge of relief; Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines; and J. F. Percival, deputy provincial treasurer.

NEW INTEREST RATE

In addition to the refunding of the public debt, the joint committee will seek to strike a new interest rate on the provincial bonds, acceptable alike to the government and bondholders.

Of the $5,803,230 in maturities due in the next three months, there falls due on September, a maturity of $2,850,000, bearing interest at six per cent, payable in the city, Montreal and Toronto. This issue was floated September 1, 1921, by the U.F.A. government in office at that time and proceeds were turned into the general revenue fund of the province.

Although no official announcement was forthcoming as to the attitude of the government toward this maturity, it is expected it will be defaulted, with the province offering to continue to pay one-half the coupon interest rate in order to keep the issue alive.

It is pointed out that it would be unfair to pay this maturity without paying those maturities which have been defaulted previously and as there are already in default, issues totalling more than $15,000,000 it is obviously impossible, according to provincial officials, to find this amount of money, under existing circumstances.

CANADIAN FUNDS

A bond maturity of $2,853,230, bearing coupon interest at six per cent, falls due on October 1. This is payable only in Canadian funds. It was issued on October 1, 1921, and the proceeds applied to Alberta Government Telephones work. The issue was in two sections, one for $1,500,000 and the other for $1,053,-230.

The final maturity of the current calendar year will fall due on December 1. This issue of $700,000, six per cent bonds, is payable in Canada and New York. It was sold in 1921 with proceeds devoted to the general revenue fund.

On July 15 last the province defaulted on a maturity of $750,000, bearing interest at 4½ per cent, payable in Canada and the United States.

INTEREST PAID

Since 1936 the province has defaulted on all its maturing obligations, totalling about $15,000,000, but interest has been continued at one-half the coupon rate.

The amount in default will be taken into consideration in the discussions between the government and its bondholders at the coming conference.

Admitted To Bar

Naval Officer Is Admitted To Bar

Praise for the heroic resistance of the Greek people to the invading Germans was voiced by Mr. Justice O'Connor in supreme court Thursday in a ceremony admitting Sub-Lt. James Saks, R.C.N.V.R., brilliant law graduate of the University of Alberta, to the bar of this province.

Color was infused to the ceremony by the fact that the new lawyer was attired in the trim uniform of a Canadian naval officer. Canadian born of Greek parentage, Sub-Lt. Saks was congratulated in warm terms by His Lordship, who stated that the young lawyer was a worthy descendent of the race.

The young lawyer is 24 years of age. Presentation was made by Alan D. Harvie, K.C., with whom the new lawyer was articled for one year.

Sub-Lt. Saks was born in Edmonton and attended public and high schools here. He graduated from the University of Alberta with the degrees of B.A. and L.L.B. in May, 1940. He was called on active service with the R.C.N.V.R. in May of 1941.

He took a very active part in city theatrical circles with the Little Theatre and the Empire Opera company.

Jamieson, of Missoula, Mont., Governor of District 37 of Lions International on September 11, were discussed at the noon luncheon meeting Tuesday of the Edmonton Lions Club at the Macdonald hotel. It was also announced at the meeting that J. D. Wallace, a club member, had been appointed zone chairman for the district.

Rich in memories of the past, the cabin owned by the Northern Alberta Pioneers' and Old Timers' Association at the fair grounds, shown above, is being transferred to No. 3 manning depot, R.C.A.F., for use as quarters for the officer commanding. An ancient "gas buggy" is also shown in the picture, as well as the original Edmonton Bulletin building (left), built by the late Hon. Frank Oliver, founder of the newspaper. The former newspaper booth of The Bulletin on the grounds is shown on the right.

Transfer Recalls Rich Memories

With the transfer of the old timers' cabin owned by the Northern Alberta Pioneers' and Old Timers' Association to the air force authorities for use as quarters for the officer commanding at No. 3 manning depot, R.C.A.F., at the Edmonton exhibition grounds, a building of historic significance will now be transformed for war purposes.

Built in 1916 by voluntary labor supplied by old timers and supervised by the late Kenneth McLeod, builder of Edmonton's biggest business block, the cabin has since been a mecca for all old timers of the province. It has served as headquarters for regular meetings of the old timers association and during fair week it served as the meeting place for all, members and non-members alike.

SHRINE TO MEMORY

Under the supervision of Maj. Brewster, now of Banff, the logs for the hut were handpicked and shipped from Jasper. All labor was done voluntarily by the old timers themselves. This fact, more than anything else, has made the cabin a place of historic importance, a shrine to the memory of the pioneers in general, and to those responsible for its erection in particular, according to J. A. McCord, secretary of the old timers organization.

Relics of inestimable value are found inside and, arrangements have been made whereby a portion of the cabin will be used for safekeeping of the souvenirs. Some of the most highly-prized relics include the first safe used here by the Hudson's Bay company. The original lock and key used in Fort Edmonton and a pipe which has travelled around the world seven times are others among the hundreds of pieces with historic background.

Arrangements for the transfer were completed at a joint meeting in the cabin Wednesday. Wing Commander J. C. Malone, officer commanding No. 3 manning depot, represented the air force authorities. A. J. Oliver, president of the Old Timers' Association, presided.

Eskimos Bring 3,000 Fox Furs From Artic Island To Aklavik

14 FAMILIES TRAP

There are just 14 Eskimo families who trap on Banks Island and six of these families arrived on the schooners North Star, Oomatuk and one other. Their catch was heavy.

The ice in the western Arctic this year was exceedingly heavy, the Eskimos reported, and as a result they were later than usual in reaching Aklavik with their furs. The roundup of the reindeer herd on Richardson island at the estuary of the Mackenzie has been completed, MacPhee also reported.

TOOK MOVIES

On his trip to Edmonton MacPhee brought Miss Barbara Dee, physiotherapist from Boston, who completed a holiday trip down to Aklavik and back to Waterways on M.R.T. boats. Miss Dee said she had a "wonderful holiday" and took 1,000 feet of moving picture film.

W. Douglas, fur trader from Aklavik, also was aboard the boat.

Citizen Flies High When He Hears Of Twins

Jack Bowen, superintendent at the Mackenzie Air Service assembly plant, has has been in the airplane business for many years but he was never flying so high as on Thursday when news came that he was the father of twin baby boys.

The boys, both husky and strong-lunged, were born at 9 a.m. Thursday at the Misericordia hospital to Mrs. Bowen, the former Miss Doris Boon. They weighed five pounds nine ounces and six pounds 12 ounces. Mrs. Bowen is president of the Misericordia Nurses Alumnae association.

Mr. Bowen was for many years an air engineer with Mackenzie Air Service, has worked on northern boats and driven the mail by dog team, before taking his present position.

Few Car Adjustments Will Make Huge Gasoline Saving For War

U.S. Wastes 3,240,000,000 Gallons

Cutting down or eliminating entirely, use of your motor car will without doubt result in the greatest possible saving of gasoline during the present fuel emergency, but where this is not possible or practicable there are many other ways in which a patriotic motorist can conserve gasoline.

Adjustments of a mechanical nature, such as carburetor jets can result in increased fuel economies that are truly phenomenal.

C. H. Grant, K.C., prominent A.M.A. official has recently received data pertaining to tests conducted by the American Automobile association, which show the tremendous potentialities for saving of gasoline involved in scientific adjustments.

GREAT SAVING

The all-important conclusion from the tests was that motor vehicle owners and operators could in the year 1940, for instance, have saved 147 per cent of the gasoline they used in the United States or 3,240,-000,000 gallons.

In terms of money saved this means $20 per vehicle, and an overall saving of more than $600,000,000 for the 32,000,000 vehicle owners in the U.S.

The figures demonstrate the tremendous possibilities for saving gasoline by efficient mechanical performance made possible through fairly simple adjustments, costing a comparatively small sum to each owner.

The actual tests were made to indicate the possible fuel consumption reduction obtainable in an average automobile by mechanical adjustments, without adversely affecting its performance.

Tests arrangements and procedure were carried out by personnel of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association.

"AVERAGE" CAR TESTS

The actual road testing and recording of fuel consumption was done by personnel of the National Bureau of Standards, with mechanical testing and adjustments performed by a qualified commercial shop.

In selecting the cars for the tests, of which six were used, the assumption was that an "average" car is four years old.

Three were 1937 models in the low price bracket, one in poor condition, one fair and the third in first class repair.

The remaining cars were: a 1939 middle-priced car in fair condition; a late 1940 medium-high price model in good condition and a 1941 low-price model with only 1,400 miles of usage.

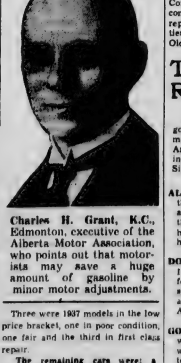

All cars were first thoroughly tested to ascertain the true "as found" condition of each.

ACCURATE RESULTS

Then test runs were made at various speeds over certain distances. All performance results were carefully tabulated. Then certain adjustments were made and the tests repeated.

Other and more exhaustive tests were made with the result that final figures can be depended on as 100 per cent accurate.

Save Gasoline

Charles H. Grant, K.C., Edmonton, executive of the Alberta Motor Association, who points out that motorists may save a huge amount of gasoline by minor motor adjustments.

Getting Around with JOHN OLIVER

SITTING in with a crowd of rabid baseball fans watching a terrific encounter between two squads seeking the coveted pennant, one is bound to hear many comments, some complimentary and others very much the opposite. Players of both sides draw their fair share of remarks, but the umpire far outdistances them. Fans supporting one side or the other, unite when it comes to their verdict on the umpire. In their eyes—and in their comments—he is a monstrous person.

The decisions with which they agree, usually are quickly cast aside as being just and equitable.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

Do you believe it would be a good method of attack on Germany to supply Canadian and American planes to Russia, ferrying them from this continent to Siberia?

THE ANSWERS

AL PIERCE, office man: I believe that it is a good plan. Russian air forces still are not equal to the Luftwaffe and a supply of the best planes from the east should help them immeasurably.

* * *

DOUG STEWART, office man: I think that it is a good idea and ferrying the planes to Siberia seems to me to be highly practical. It looks even easier than the Atlantic ferry.

* * *

GORDON NEWTON, barrister: I would favor the plan but I believe we should take some precautions to see that the Russians make the best use of the planes, such as by sending technical experts with them. It might even be worth considering to send some of our own air force to fight in Germany's eastern front. However, I would not definitely propose this without a full knowledge of the situation there.

* * *

ROY FAWCUS, printer: I think that is a good idea. The planes likely would go through Edmonton to Alaska on the ferry and it would make it clearer that we were close to the war.

Yellowknife Power Survey Now Planned

To survey the town of Yellowknife for the purpose of running lines from the Bluefish Lake power project for domestic light and power, N. W. Dubois, Estevan, Sask., of Dominion Electric Power Ltd., went north Thursday in a United Air Service plane.

Power has been developed by Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co., Ltd., for the mines in the Yellowknife area and plans will go forward this fall to wire the town for lighting.

Seven passengers went out on planes piloted by Alf Caywood and Rod Potter, Thursday. Among them was William Fox of the Hudson's Bay Company, for Coppermine. He will be flown from Yellowknife to Hunter Bay, Great Bear Lake, by Pilot George Gillmour and from there to Coppermine, by Pilot Harold Miller, who is now freighting there.

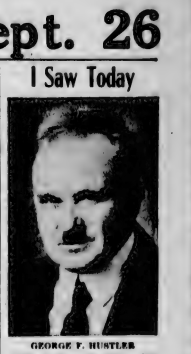

NEW MAGISTRATE

Also aboard a plane out of Edmonton was C. A. "Chuck" Perkins, Yellowknife barrister, who is returning north to assume his new post of magistrate for that territory.

L. G. Weekes and J. W. Barker flew to McMurray in connection with work for Abasand Oils Ltd., tar sand development. It is planned to run a pipeline from the refinery to the railway at Waterways.

President Urges Writers To Show Greater Courage

VANCOUVER, Aug. 21.—(CP)—Mrs. Madge Macbeth, of Ottawa, in her presidential address to the National convention of the Canadian Authors' Association, opening here today, said she "looked forward to the day when the Authors' Association will be listed as one of Canada's national resources, when we may have a Federal minister of education who will regard us as his right-hand men."

Sessions of the convention, being attended by authors and writers from all parts of Canada, will continue until next Tuesday. The convention will move to Victoria Monday for its final meetings.

Mrs. Macbeth said emphasis at the convention would be laid on the opportunity for members to serve their King and country during war time. But this, she said, was not enough, and she looked to the day when the authors' association would be listed as a national resource.

Mrs. Macbeth told the writers that the war presented them with unlimited opportunity.

"This is our big moment, authors," she said. "This is our opportunity. Here we have freedom, comfort, all the necessary machinery for a great work to rise out of this physical and spiritual upheaval. To work, then writers! We have a spiritual boundary to defend. This is my challenge."

Writers must have more courage, the president said.

"We are far more better off than our colleagues elsewhere, who have lost the thing that writers, above all people need—I mean freedom of thought. Here we have that and also we have reserves of the great literary masterpieces that have been so ruthlessly destroyed in many great countries . . ."

Bride Chooses Pretty Gown For Ceremony

Gowned in a wedding dress of delicate pink sheer, Elizabeth Anne McIver, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McIvor, became the bride of Thomas Richard Docherty, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Docherty of Alix, at a pretty ceremony, recently.

Setting for the ceremony was in Bonnie Doon Baptist church, which was charmingly arranged with summer blossoms for the occasion. Rev. E. A. Allison officiated.

PRETTY GOWN

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father. A sweetheart neckline fitted bodice and full bouffant skirt falling floor-length were interesting details of her frock. Her veil of tulle was fashioned three-quarter length and she carried an arm bouquet of sweetheart roses and carnations. Her only ornament was a gold chain and locket, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Bessie McIvor, aunt of the bride was a charming bridesmaid in her floor length gown of twilight blue sheer, and carrying an arm bouquet of pink carnations.

Mr. Abraham Docherty of Alix supported his brother as best man. Mr. Norman McIvor, brother of the bride and Mr. George Wright ushered guests to their pews.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Laycock.

Following the ceremony a reception to fifty friends was held in the Masonic Temple. Mrs. McIvor received guests wearing an afternoon frock of dusty rose crepe accented with black accessories. Mrs. Docherty chose a frock of black velvet and black accessories. Both wore shoulder corsages of pink carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Docherty will make their home in Edmonton.

JASPER JOTTINGS

By FAY PARKER

JASPER, Aug. 21.—When Pete Windh, manager of the Haywood Lumber Yard at Jasper looked out of his dooryard one afternoon last week he saw two young men in shorts and sweat shirts and dark glasses sitting beside the road. When approached they asked about being taken over to Jasper Park Lodge as they in some way missed their car which was to meet them after making a climb of Whistlers Mt. The sharp eyes of Mr. Windh detected something familiar in the profile of one of the men and he asked, "Isn't that the Duke of Kent?"

"Yes" replied the Duke's companion, "and we have been walking for some time and are due back at the Lodge."

So Mr. Winch jumped into the car and soon had the distinguished hikers back to their comfortable cabin on Lac Beauvert, and was warmly thanked for his help in the case.

"A good many cars passed this way," said the Duke

"You'll have to learn to thumb your way along," returned Mr. Windh, and His Highness the Duke of Kent laughingly said he certainly would next time.

HERE'S ONE TASTY FOOD THAT CONTAINS THE WHEAT GERM

Yes, mother, here's the answer to your diet problem. Cubs are a wholesome energy food made from whole wheat —the bran, the minerals, and the precious wheat germ are there. And they have flavor that really tempts appetites. Mellow malt blends its goodness with the nut-like flavor of the wheat. Cubs are crisp, crunchy, toasted a golden brown. Try Cubs for breakfast tomorrow.

Request For Books Made By I.O.D.E.

There is a "corny" story about the woman who, on being asked if she wanted a book, said, "No, thanks, I have one." Well, if you have a book which you have already read—or dozens of them—they will be gratefully received by the I.O.D.E. who are endeavoring to collect a lot of good-reading books for the library at the R.C.A.F. manning depot in the Exhibition grounds.

Miss McMinn Is Married Recently

A bouquet of fragrant American Beauty roses and white sweet peas were a lovely floral complement to the gown worn by Miss Edythe McMinn, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. McMinn of Edmonton, when she spoke wedding vows at a pretty ceremony recently with Mr. Albert Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Johnson of Kipling, Saskatchewan. Setting for the ceremony was in the Boston Baptist parsonage, with Rev. S. A. Cerson officiating.

The bride was a graceful figure in her floor-length gown of petal pink sheer, embossed at the waist. A picture hat of pink straw and white slippers completed her ensemble.

Echoing the pastel motif was the gown chosen by the bridesmaid, Miss Elnora Ruff of St. Paul, Minnesota. It was of soft turquoise blue sheer worn over crisp taffeta, marked from neckline to waist with dainty pink satin bows. With this a white straw, off-the-face hat was worn, and a bouquet of gladioli carried.

Miss Joyce McMinn, niece of the bride, was the flower girl in a tow-length frock of blue sheer taffeta. She carried a bouquet of pastel toned sweet peas.

Mr. Henry Brandt of Wetaskiwin supported the bridegroom as best man.

Miss Ruthe Johnson, sister of the bridegroom, who was charmingly gowned in deep peach satin, rendered two beautiful solos, "O Promise Me" and "Until the End of Time". She was accompanied at the piano by Miss Hazel Trasser of Camrose.

RECEPTION

Immediate friends and relatives gathered at a reception in the Corona hotel following the ceremony, to extend congratulations and best wishes to the bridal couple.

Quebec Women Make Great Progress During Past Year

By GLADYS ARNOLD

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—(CP)—Quebec representative on the legislative committee of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women, Miss E. McKenzie of Montreal has reported to national headquarters that Quebec women during the past 12 months have made perhaps greater progress than in any previous one-year period.

Miss McKenzie listed these advances by women in Quebec:

1. Women were granted the provincial franchise in 1940.

2. Two women—Mrs. A. F. Byers and Mrs. A. Stalker, were appointed members of the Protestant committee of the Council of Education.

3. Elizabeth Monk, Kathleen Fisher and Mme P. Bruneau were elected members of Montreal City Council.

4. McGill University, Montreal, opened an architectural course to women.

Quebec women will use their provincial franchise for the first time in by-elections in Huntingdon and St. Johns-Napierville, probably in September or October. Miss McKenzie reported Quebec women now are turning their attention particularly into the field of compulsory education.

The Federation's legislative committee is headed by Ruth S. McGill, Regina lawyer. Provincial representatives besides Miss McKenzie are Mrs. Kate Farquharson, Victoria; Ada Cummer, Calgary; Mrs. Margaret Stevens, Toronto; Hazel Rushton, Ottawa; L. Pickett, Saint John, N.B.; and Grace Wambolt, Halifax.

At federation headquarters it was said intense interest has been aroused in all branches of the organization by information received by executive officers of the order.

Dorothy Dix Says:

Dear Miss Dix—How can a young man go with an extremely pretty, intelligent well-educated, charming girl for two years and not love her, or I should say, not propose to her? He is very well-to-do, amply able to support a wife, and she has a good income of her own. This girl reads to him, she dances with him, and serves him with all sorts of dainties, and still he just comes and sits and sits without popping the question. What do you think?

AUNT MOLLIE

ANSWER—I think he is one of the asocial dead-beats who will take all that a girl will give without ever meaning to make any return. Such men have no conscience so far as the woman is concerned. They are so rotten-ly selfish that they never consider any one's good or pleasure but their own.

This man admires your niece; he enjoys her society, he likes to be petted and spoiled, and he luxuriates in the thought that she loves him, but he doesn't want to take upon himself the restrictions and the responsibilities of matrimony. So he spends his evenings in your most comfortable chair, letting this charming maiden work like a coal heaver to entertain and amuse him, and that's all there is to it.

After a bit he will grow tired of her and her pretty bag of tricks, and some younger and fairer girl with a newer line will come along and he will transfer himself from your parlor to another, and your niece will be left lamenting.

It is nothing to him that he is monopolizing her and that he is linking her name with his, so that when he does forsake her she will be virtually in the position of a jilted girl. It is nothing to him that he is keeping eligible suitors away from her, and probably dooming her to be an old maid, because it is while her youth and beauty are in full flower that a girl has her best chances of making a good marriage.

Why any girl should be weak enough and foot enough to let a man treat her that way is past all comprehension. One would think that her pride would rebel against putting herself in such a humiliating position, and that her common sense would tell her that if the man really loved her and wanted her he would have asked her to marry him long ago. And that there is no use in waiting longer, hoping against hope that he will ever speak.

No man can visit a girl regularly for a year without knowing definitely what he is going to do about asking her to marry him, and if by the end of that time he hasn't popped the question it's the air for him, if the girl has a grain of gumption in her head.

U. S. Dancer Gives Four Tips For Leg Painting

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21—(CP)—As a dancer at the "It" Maxime Frances finds silk stockings very important. If she can't get any more she wanted to know what to do about it. So with her friend Alice Hulett, also a dancer, Maxime worked out a series of tips on leg-painting which aids the illusion.

1. Maxime used a soluble theatrical makeup. The legs must be free of hair, the "stockings" must be painted neatly, without streaks; the top even.

2. For best results under artificial light, she experimented with a cream which gave the paint more lustre.

3. A few yards away it was hard to tell silk stockings from the painted ones. Maxime's garter aided the illusion.

4. Skirt should be in contrast, said Maxime. Nude or tan shades "give away" the paint.

Put Zip, Zest In Sunday Treat For Family

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

If your Sunday dinner dessert is not as exciting to your family as a furlough is to your boy at camp, then somewhere, somehow, your cuisine is slipping.

CINNAMON DATE PUDDING WITH TUTTI-FRUTTI SAUCE

One and one half cups dates, chopped; 1¾ cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon baking soda, 1½ teaspoons cinnamon, 3 teaspoons shortening (¼ butter), ¾ cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 can condensed tomato soup.

Sift flour, then measure, add the baking powder, baking soda and cinnamon, and sift again. Add two tablespoons of the flour mixture to the chopped dates and mix thoroughly. Cream the shortening, add the sugar gradually and cream well. Then add the beaten egg. Add the flour mixture alternately with the tomato soup. Then stir in the floured dates. Pour into a well-buttered 9-inch square baking pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350-degrees) for 30-40 minutes.

One egg, separated; ¼ cup whipped cream, ¼ cup chopped walnut meats, 6 maraschino cherries, chopped; 2 figs, chopped.

Beat the egg white until stiff, then beat in the sugar gradually. Add the egg yolk and continue beating. Fold in the whipped cream at the last and then add nut meats, cherries and figs.

RICH RICE CUSTARD PUDDING
(Serves 4 to 6)

One-half cup brown rice, 2 eggs, ¼ cup raw brown sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup water in which rice was boiled rapidly, 1 cup undiluted evaporized milk, nutmeg.

Boil rice briskly in 1 quart salted water 20 minutes. Drain off and save water. Beat eggs; add sugar, salt, milk, rice water, and rice. Pour into top of double boiler. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Cook over boiling water until custard coats spoon, about 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Chill.

Tomorrow's Menu

SUPPER—Cream of chicken soup in cups, mixed cooked vegetable salad, hot enriched flour biscuits, jams, assorted cheese, tea, milk.

Points For Parents

By EDITH THOMAS WALLACE

Mother: "We've at last found a house with a fenced yard. Since we fixed it up with a swing and boxes and sand pile, Jimmie is busy here all day long."

Mother: "Jimmie's so naughty. He's never quiet a moment . . . Why can't you be a good boy and sit still and look at your book?"

It is not the child's desire for activity that is wrong, but our inability to provide acceptable ways of satisfying that desire.

McCoy Health Service

It is gratifying to know that we on this continent are a "dental conscious" nation, and the majority of parents are anxious to see that their children grow to maturity with sound, well developed teeth. With the facilities available in schools and clinics, there is really no excuse for not arresting dental decay which has already commenced. However, we must go further than this. I cannot impress upon my readers too strongly the necessity for an adequate diet from which the necessary phosporous and calcium and other minerals and vitamins may be obtained with which to build strong teeth.

The best authorities agree that after the age of 21 the diet has little influence on the teeth and that by this time they have completed their growth. It is also agreed that just as much attention should be paid to the baby teeth as to the second teeth. The effect of an improper diet is demonstrated by the early appearance of dental caries, irregular and uneven teeth, and discoloration. Dental decay is very rare among primitive people and is a product of civilization, due to the use of too many soft, highly refined foods, and the consequent digestive disorders which this soft starch diet produces.

Excess stomach acids are directly responsible for most of the dental diseases, such as pyorrhea, and these cannot be remedied by direct treatment to the mouth alone. Every effort must be made to build the general health by systemic treatment.

It is essential to keep the teeth clear of tartar, which has the effect of destroying the membrane just under the gum, and if deposits of tartar have accumulated your dentist will scale your teeth and at the same time he can estimate the amount of damage done, if any, by decay.

In eating the ordinary mixed diet the first defense of the food against the teeth is not sufficient to clean off the bacteria which forms between meals. To keep the teeth free from these bacteria the teeth should be brushed from all directions, including up and down and between the teeth. It is very important to give the gums a good brushing, even though they bleed a little at first. After a few days the bleeding will stop, providing no disease is present.

For those readers who would like to have further information on the subject are invited to send for Dr. Frank McCoy's special articles entitled "Why Teeth Decay" and another "Your Health and Your Teeth". Address your request to McCoy Health Service, enclosing a large self-addressed envelope and six cents in loose stamps.

All questions regarding Health and Diet will be answered. Large, stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service in care of this paper.

"Old Jane" Carries His Majesty's Mail In English Village

COCKERHAM, Eng., Aug. 21.—(CP)—Called the "most remarkable post-woman in the world," Jane Preston has carried the mails in this little North Lancashire village for 45 years.

Now 68 and still going strong, Jane says she has walked 140,000 miles in her heavy clogs, making her rounds. She hopes to keep going until she's 100.

Known to the villagers as "Old Jane", she travels about 10 miles a day over the foothills of the Pennines and through the salt marshes and sands of Morecambe Bay. The weather has never been known to upset her punctuality.

Some years ago, Jane also carried the night mails from Cockerham to Bay House station, three miles distant. She used to load the mail bags in a perambulator which she pushed about. Her dog "Gyp" trotted at her side as she plodded the dark roads, lighting her way with a candle-lamp.

SALAD AS THEY LIKE IT

Unless all your family like all the ingredients of a mixed salad, why not serve the ingredients separately and allow each member to assemble their own? Put the crisp greens in a large bowl, and the tomatoes, onions, cucumbers, radishes or what have you in a handy compartment dish. A choice of two or three salad dressings might also be an inducement for reluctant salad-eaters.

ERMINE FOR EVENING

Hollywood has gone overboard for ermine—for evening. And Joan Fontaine chose a fingertip jacket, as intricately worked as fine fabric, with a tie-scarf. Women's cut lines—

What To Do

Anyone can learn to be tactful. It isn't something that's born in us, but a quality we develop as we go along. It is developed by contact with others, meeting situations and a certain amount of common sense. It is a combination of knowing what others feel and knowing how to meet situations as they arise.

It does not necessarily mean that we cannot express our own opinions, but it does require us to think before we speak. So many of us say thoughtless things and are sorry the minute they are said. To avoid hurting the feelings of others and by profiting from others' mistakes we learn tact.

A selfish person is usually tactless because they care nothing for anyone and insist upon expressing their own opinion at any cost. Small courtesies to others can help make our lives more pleasant and our contacts more profitable.

U. S. College Girl Is Fashion-Minded; Designs "V" Gloves

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(BUP)—Speaking of fashions—an American college girl has just designed a pair of gloves with the symbol of the V-for-Victory campaign embroidered into them—and it looks as if her future is cut out for her. Her name is Mimi Dworsky and designing clothes has long been a hobby of hers. Her gloves have the first four notes of Beethoven's Symphony stitched across the back of the hand—putting the musical symbol of Britain's new propaganda campaign right where you can't avoid seeing it all the time.

Through with this newsworthy idea, Mimi now has turned her talents to designing a really big pocketbook. She says that with the rationing of gasoline in the U. S. there won't be so much running home to change dresses between dates. So—why not a handbag that will carry a spare dress—or some pick-me-up accessories? According to Mimi, any woman would carry such a bag and save gas.

Despite Mimi's style-sense, her real ambition is to be an actress. She's studying dramatics at Vassar and when she is graduated next spring she hopes to land a job on the stage.

Twins From Canada Are Now Clerks In England's W.A.A.F.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(CP)—May and June Saunders hope they won't cause as much confusion in the women's Auxiliary Air Force as they did among friends back in Montreal and more recently among fellow-workers in a Birmingham chocolate factory.

The pretty, 20-year-olds who came to England from Montreal seven years ago have joined the W.A.A.F. as clerks.

Identical twins their old Montreal friends hardly knew which was which. May and June were employed in the chocolate factory until they decided to join the W.A.A.F. In the factory their employers had difficulty keeping track of them. Often, one was credited with work done by the other.

"The only difference between us," says May, "is June's boy-friend. I have none." The girls have three brothers, two in Canada, and the third with the Canadian forces in Britain.

Lady Bowhill Arrives In Canada To Join R.A.F. Ferry Command

MONTREAL, Aug. 21.—(CP)—Lady Bowhill, wife of Air Chief Marshal Sir Frederick Bowhill, has arrived in Canada to take up a post under her husband in the Royal Air Force ferry command.

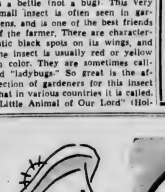

Lady Bowhill, who has the rank of flight officer, will be in command of three other members of the Women's Auxiliary Air Force, working in the cypher and code office of Sir Frederick's command, which he assumed recently.

She said in an interview here today that she has been serving under her husband since the outbreak of war. Asked what it was like to take orders from her husband, Lady Bowhill replied: "When I am on duty I take orders. At home I give them."

Lady Bowhill said she began preparing for her W.A.A.F. post at the time of the Munich crisis by attending special classes in code and cypher with other British women. When war was declared they volunteered and were accepted at once.

Debunker

Like many other things, the ladybird is so named as to conceal, rather than reveal, its identity. It is neither a bird nor a lady. This very small insect is often seen in gardens, and is one of the best friends of the farmer. There are characteristic black spots on its wings, and the insect is usually red or yellow in color. They are sometimes called "ladybugs." So great is the affection of gardeners for this insect that in various countries it is called, "Little Animal of Our Lord" (Holy), "St. Michael's chicken." Ladybirds feed on many other harmful insects and thus save gardeners much damage.

WOMEN EXEMPT

LONDON.—(CP)—Women will be exempt when the City of London compulsory fire watching order comes into effect.

LUNCHEON OMELET

To your regular omelet for two, add eight tablespoons of very coarsely grated Swiss cheese. Proceed to cook in your best omelet style. Serve with hot biscuits and crisp chilled tomato and lettuce salad. A jellied bouillon would be an appetizing first course, with iced tea and raspberry ahrrickake for dessert.

IT'S THE CRISPNESS MAKES 'EM SMILE!

Happy Husbands here to stay, when clever little wives give them the breakfast it's fun to eat! Kellogg's Rice Krispies are so crisply tempting, so golden and inviting, so they crackle in the cream. Try a great big bowlful tomorrow! And you'll smile too!

Merry Mothers at breakfast, because the whole family is light-hearted and contented when they see the Rice Krispies package on the table. Tests prove that Rice Krispies stay floating in milk or cream for hours. Crisp to the last spoonful, they never mush down . . . never get soggy!

To Take Notice—"Rice Krispies" is a registered Trade Mark of the Kellogg Company of Canada Limited, for their delicious brand of oven-popped rice. In other words, when you want Rice Krispies—and you do want Rice Krispies—say "Rice Krispies," and you'll get Rice Krispies! And when you breakfast out, ask for the triple-wrapped individual package.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER McBRIDE

The fights and squabbles of well-matched playmates need not cause the mother too great worry, so long as the children engaged really enjoy playing with each other, except for these occasional storms.

Unquestionably, most boys revel in an all-out fight, even though afterwards they welcome a little sympathy from mothers. All boys fight at some time or other, and mostly for non-serious causes, just little-boy energy finding an outlet for itself.

When children are of far different ages and the older one has obvious advantages, there would seem to be little point in allowing these controversies to continue. It's too easy for an older child to become a bully and a younger one a coward when mere strength and age tip the balance one way. In such case, a mother has a right to step in and curb the older child's belligerency.

Mrs. K. L. writes, "My 3-year-old insists on playing with a neighbor girl of 6. The parents of this child—she is adopted—do not believe in disciplining her. They say they want her to have a good time. I don't see what my daughter sees in this child, for she is constantly slapping and pinching her and twisting her wrists. She won't even let her play with her own toys. I've seen this child kick and bite her mother, who just takes it and says how pretty she is and what a lovely voice.

"To make a long story short: Should I let my daughter play with this girl? Her mother thinks I am too fussy, but she forgets what a difference there is in their ages."

And that is the important point. It is surprising the older child would be contented to play, as your daughter isn't too stimulating a companion for her.

When you see her mistreating your daughter, it would be a real kindness to her to send her home with the explanation that because she is so much older she should be kind to the little friend. When she wants to play nicely again, she is welcome to come back. A few such reminders ought to be enough.

The foster mother has the right idea for her kindness campaign will win the child's love and co-operation. But she cannot ignore necessary discipline—however kind she wants to be—for the child has to learn the rules and regulations of living while she is still at home.

Perhaps she is over-emphasizing her fairness because of past unjust treatment the child has received and which she is illustrating in her treatment of this helpless younger child. Try to understand the adopted child's handicaps. Help her in every way to blossom under her present loving care.

My leaflet, Obedience and Punishment, will be mailed to you on request, if you will write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a three-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing.

CHINTZ IS VERSATILE

Chintz is one of the most versatile of summer fabrics. The woman who is clever with the needle will find innumerable uses for it. Draperies and slipcovers, of course, and afternoon porch frocks, play suits, clever aprons, house coats, glamorous evening gowns, as well as children's dresses and pinafores. Be sure, however, that the chintz you purchase is the type with a permanent glazed finish and will launder perfectly.

Cycle Of Coiffure Modes Is Marked By World Wars

By ALICIA HART
NEA Service Staff Writer

ANY fashion expert will tell you that clothes styles run in cycles. Old fashions are constantly being revived.

Generally speaking, this has not been true of hair—because, up until the time of the last World War, all women had worn their hair long. It was not until Irene Castle bobbed her hair and war workers quickly followed suit that coiffures became part and parcel of the fashion scene, with frequent changes in style.

Since those old World War days of extremely short bobs, plenty has been happening to hair. The wind blown, you will remember, followed closely on the heels of the mannishly cut, shingled head. Dorothy Mackaill and the famous stars of silent films set the pace. And in every barber shop in the country hair was being cut to look as if it had been blown casually about by the wind.

Then hair began to get longer, until, by 1935, the long bob was the order of the day. In 1937 or thereabouts, a variation of it—the page boy—made a bow and stayed for wide applause. Hair-dressers brushed the page boy as quickly as possible, however. It made the matter of arranging the hair at home entirely too simple.

UPSWEPT COIFFURE WAS FOR THE FEW

In 1939 the upswept hair-do swept the country. Out came hair brushes, up went hair—to be arranged on top of the head instead of being left dangling on the neck. Hairpin manufacturers did a flourishing business for the first time since the early '20's.

The popularity of the upswept was shortlived, however. Only a few seemed to be able to live happily with it. College girls and movie stars accounted from the beginning and stuck to their long bobs.

And the reaction to the upswept was terrific. Hair came down, down and down. Bobs got longer and longer, until, in 1940, hair definitely was being worn on the shoulders and not on the neck. Brenda Frazier's long bob was typical of the hairstyles of 1939 and '40.

At the moment the picture is changing, hair is getting shorter and the cycle—from World War to World War—appears to be just about to complete itself. Not only are debutantes and college girls cutting an inch or so off their glamor bobs, but business women are agreeing that shorter hair looks neater on the neckline and, hard though it is to believe, a few motion picture stars are having their long bobs cut off.

A REAL RETURN TO SHORTER HAIR PREDICTED

MARY ASTOR, for instance, is wearing her hair extremely short at the front, shingled across the back. Perc Westmore, Hollywood's makeup and hair style genius, predicts a real return to shorter hair. Women in England like his "Shelter Bob"—a coiffure that is easy to manage in air raid shelters; in fact, requires practically no attention. The back is waved to resemble long hair beautifully dressed. The front has soft review curls to add the necessary touch of femininity.

Mr. Westmore believes that women never will take to mannish haircuts again. He points out that hair can be short and still be feminine. Many women are sending their photographs to Perc Westmore in Hollywood and paying him a fee to design new coiffures right on the pictures. Lots of them, the expert reports, are asking for hair styles that will be easy to manage as well as neater looking.

Good Golf Can Be Easy—
Opinion Of Ernest Jones

No Need To Complicate Swing

It is, the well-known pro maintains, if you stick to the idea that the golf stroke is a single continuous action, circular in shape. You make golf hard by going at it in a "bits and pieces" way.

Jones has nothing against studying the details of a good player's movement as he swings his club.

You see that the body turns well toward the right as the club swings back, the left heel is lifted from the ground, the wrists bend inward toward the point of the right shoulder as the club head reaches the limit of the backswing—and so on!

But, he points out, these actions are the results of your good swing rather than its cause. Piecing them together into a good swing is as hard as piecing arcs together to make a circle. Begin with the circle instead!

Learn how to swing your club—not just move it. You may be doing the latter when you think you are doing the former.

How to acquire a really good swing is explained and diagrammed by Ernest Jones in our 32-page booklet. Tells how to hold your club, stand, balance. A guide for beginners and more advanced players.

Cook Leaves Royal Palace For British Tank Factory

A FACTORY SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Aug. 21.—(BUP)—A cook who once worked for Britain's royalty is helping make tanks for Britain's soldiers in this ear-splitting factory.

She is Dora, who turned from the pots and pans of St. James palace to use Cincinnati-made machine tools on some of the lighter tanks of production, including "Covenanters," Britain's newest cruiser tanks which until now have been a military secret.

She works in a factory which has been producing tanks a little more than a year but now holds the record for a month's production of their size tank, competing against firms which started long before. She works with travelling salesmen, bus conductors, milkmen, butchers, insurance agents, two pub owners, a dental mechanic, a coffin maker and a lion tamer, who gave up their occupations to help the war effort.

RACE WINNER

The factory's chief test driver is a horse trainer who handled the Grand National winner about 10 years ago, and who believes horses are easier to handle than tanks.

The tools are as diverse as the persons who operate them. Most are British, but the turret rings are being tooled by a machine from Wilmington and several mechanical monsters are labelled "American."

The Covenanter is named for the Scots who fought for religious freedom and won it in 1638. It is designed to act as a fast-moving screen for heavier tanks. Its guns have unusual striking power.

It takes only a very short time, but terrific noise, to convert a collection of turret plates, gun-mounts and treads into a fighting unit which leaves the factory under its own power. Ton for ton, a tank requires as many rivets as a skyscraper, and it seems as if every second worker is pounding rat-tat, electrically heated rivets with a pneumatic hammer all the time.

75-MILE TEST

I saw a tank roll off the assembly line that had been finished in one third of the time required for the first one constructed here. A huge crane picked it up and carried it out of the factory. Then it went careening across country in a 75-mile test before it was delivered to the army.

Until a year ago, this factory made lots of heavy equipment, but none of it was for military service. Called on to produce tanks, it enlarged its personnel, hiring even a few 14-year-olds.

These youngsters seemed to be working twice as hard as anyone else. One gave me a dirty-faced grin and said:

33rd ANNUAL EXHIBIT CLOSES

Trophies Presented To Winners At City Flower Show

Exhibitors Are Given Cups, Ribbon Awards: Fair Chief Officiates

Thirty-third annual flower show, sponsored by the Edmonton Horticultural Society, closed Wednesday night, with Charles E. Wilson, president of the Edmonton Exhibition Association, presenting trophies, shields and ribbons to prize winners.

B. C. Nicholls, Sub. P.O. 22, Edmonton, entrant in the novice section, carried off three major awards to lead the contestants in major winnings. He was awarded the Gladys Reeves' trophy for scoring the highest number of points in the show. The Edmonton Exhibition Association shield, for scoring the highest aggregate in the vegetable class, and a ribbon for the aggregate in the novice class, were his other two awards.

WINS TWO CUPS

Both cups in the gladiolus classes, the Jackson Bros. challenge cup and the A. M. Kitto trophy, went to Tom Culley, 9520 100 avenue, for entering the best collection of glads and for the best display of not less than six varieties. H. Reid, 9432 108A avenue won the honorary president's challenge cup for the best basket of glads.

The Capitol Theatre cup was won by George Wilson, 11839 82 street, for the best 12 roses, the John Lefeuvre trophy by J. Home, 13015 82 street, for the best six roses and the Northwestern Utilities trophy by Mrs. H. C. Straite, General Delivery, South Edmonton, for the best display of cut bloom.

Penhold Airmen Brought Here

No. 3 manning depot of the R.C.A.F., at the exhibition grounds, this week is absorbing the airmen from No. 2A manning depot at Penhold and by Saturday it is expected that the whole Penhold establishment will be brought here.

Penhold depot originally was designed as an advanced training centre and was used temporarily for a manning pool, the first station to which air force recruits are taken. The Penhold station now will be used for its original purpose.

Some 300 men arrived in Edmonton from Penhold Wednesday and the remainder will be arriving during the week.

These men are placed in quarters segregated from the rest and do all their training separately when they first arrive for a few days in order to guard against spread of scarlet fever, of which there have been a few cases.

Air Force News Headlines Visit Duke To Centre

Bearing headlines of tribute to H.R.H. the Duke of Kent who visited air schools here, the sixth issue of "Grumble 'n' Gossip", official organ of No. 9 Air Observers School, R.C.A.F., here, was being distributed this week.

Feature of the August edition of what is becoming one of the most popular little magazines with the men in blue, as well as Canadians and Australians in other services, is a short note from Mayor John W. Ivens congratulating the school on its noteworthy "initiative" in publishing a magazine of this nature.

Centres Ready Take Recruits

Preparations for opening of the Camrose and Grande Prairie training centres for recruits being called under the National Resources Mobilization Act have been completed, it is announced by Joseph P. McIsaac, M.C., registrar for the National War Services Board here.

Camrose training camp will open on August 28, with the Grande Prairie camp opening on August 29.

Both new recruits and men who have already served training periods of 30 days will start training at both Camrose and Grande Prairie on the dates announced.

There are 195 new recruits for the Camrose camp, and 85 men who have had 30 days' previous training being recalled.

At Grande Prairie there are 15 new recruits, and 10 who have served the 30-day period previously.

All men now being called are liable for service in Canada for the duration of the war.

Morticians End Convention Here

One of the most successful conventions in the history of the organization, according to J. C. Wainwright, Calgary, secretary-treasurer of the Alberta Funeral Directors and Embalmers' Association, Inc., was concluded Wednesday evening.

Prof. Harry E. Jolley, of the Williams Institute of Mortuary Science, Kansas City, Kan., delivered his sixth and final lecture in the Y.M.C.A. hut to conclude the three-day convention. He spoke to the undertakers on sanitation and disinfectants connected with public health.

This talk, like the previous five lectures, was received most enthusiastically, and proved to be most instructive, said Mr. Wainwright.

Others, besides Prof. Jolley, who contributed to the convention's program, were Dr. D. C. Revell, members of the examinations board; Dr. F. A. Keillor, city coroner; J. M. Thom, public administrator; and Clayton Adams, chairman industrial relations board.

R. J. Gaunt, solicitor, department of trade and industry, and chairman of the advisory board, and Rev. J. R. Ketchen, spoke at the business breakfast. W. D. King, deputy minister of the department of trade and industry, was special speaker at the banquet.

The ladies' program, with Mrs. J. W. Connelly, of Edmonton, as convener, consisted of an afternoon tea and theatre party Monday, and a morning breakfast and banquet Tuesday.

Police Probing "Red" Pamphlets

Three-page mimeographed pamphlets entitled "All Out for Soviet Victory over Fascism", addressed "To Canadians" and signed by the "Political Bureau of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of Canada" have been scattered over to city police after being found in the Haddon dance hall, 97 street, Wednesday night.

Only a few of the pamphlets, printed on pink paper, were found on the floor.

The Communist Party of Canada was outlawed by an order-in-council soon after the start of the present war.

15 Daily Answer Call To Service

Vacancies still remain in the 19th quota for the Canadian Army (A), according to Maj. Eric Edwards, acting officer commanding No. 13A District Depot. Men are coming forward at a steady daily average, though not a large one, he said. Between 10 and 15 are going up before the medical boards each day.

Although it is expected that the quota of 543 for Alberta will be filled by the end of the month, officials point out that those who come forward now will find many splendid opportunities awaiting them. Men are urgently required in all branches of the service, including artillery, engineers, signals, infantry, armored units, anti-tank and anti-aircraft and others.

A special request has been received by Maj. Edwards for signallers. Trademen also are specially desired and those with this type of training will find placement easy. Those who have had no technical training and who are physically fit, need not steer clear of the recruiting office on that account. Army trade schools are now operating and provide training which will serve as an aid in the war effort and will give the soldier a groundwork for civil rehabilitation after the war.

City Meet Asks Aid For Russia

Members of the Canadian-Ukrainian Anti-Fascist organization, at a meeting held recently in the Memorial Hall, decided to forward a letter to Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, expressing their satisfaction at his promise of help to the Soviet Union, but at the same time urging that the Canadian government move more rapidly towards carrying out that promise.

John C. Dubeta and N. Kully were chairman and secretary, respectively, of the meeting.

Tram Library To Open October 6

Commencing October 6, Edmonton will put into operation the only street car library in Canada, according to H. C. Gourlay, city librarian.

As soon as arrangements are completed, Miss Margaret Auxier and Miss Grace Macdonald will be placed in charge of the library. It will contain a large number of fiction and non-fiction books, which may be obtained from 3 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Before the unique library goes in its first post in Calder, it will be on display at various points throughout the city, he said.

Buy British Drive To Be Talked Here

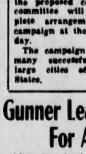

Meeting to further discuss plans for a "Buy Something British" campaign here will be held in the Chamber of Commerce offices at 5 p.m. Friday.

A committee, headed by C. F. Martin, of the retail section of the chamber, was appointed some time ago and has already studied plans for the proposed campaign. This committee will likely complete arrangements for the campaign at the meeting Friday.

The campaign is similar to many successfully held in large cities of the United States.

Gunner Leaves For Air Duties

After ten days' leave, spent at the Pacific coast with his parents, Sgt. Air Gunner Richard Bryan Cowell, R.C.A.F., a former resident of Edmonton, returned recently to his duties in the air force in the east.

Sgt. Cowell, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Cowell of Edmonton, was formerly of Edmonton, received his education at H. A. Gray and Eastwood public schools and McDougall Commercial. Before enlisting in October, 1940, he was employed by a local lumber firm.

He spent his training periods in Toronto, Camp Borden, Calgary and at No. 3 bombing and gunnery school, Jasper, Sask., where he received top honors upon graduation.

While on leave he was married to Miss Violet Blatchford of Edmonton.

Getting Around

But when a call is made unfavorable to the team a fan desires to see emerge victorious, then the official is a "robber," a "thief," or he is a "bum" and the cry for the "take him out" and "kill the umpire" are heard ringing through the welkin.

In the old days at Diamond Park, Frank Drayton used to go his own sweet way in spite of the crowds and call 'em as he saw 'em. In contemporary times, John "Lefty" Ducey, at Renfrew Park, listens to the tirade of the fans calling for mayhem upon his person with pleasurable satisfaction and in the comforting knowledge that he is an integral part of the old ball game. He goes along serenely calling the pitches, strikes and plays as he sees them. And the crowds return to the enclosure to listen again. Ducey, Bob and Herb Coxford and the rest who handle the decisions on the diamonds these days, are not about the righteous wrath of pent up cash customers. They are maintaining the tradition of the Draytons and others of the city's glorious baseball past and they can take all the verbal punishment handed out.

• • •

To be sure, nobody loves the umpire. But few fans would like to watch a ball game without one. They would not like to see the decision go to the team which yells more loudly "Yer out," or to the side which can back up such a dictum more expertly with its fists. It seems reasonable to suppose that when grown men refrain from undisciplined street games, where might, or sometimes merely loud noise, makes right; when they pass that test to be supervised and umpired type of sport, they have learned a lesson in collective, democratic living.

• • •

Although ball park hablues call for annihilation of the umpire, they do so in direct violation of the edge that their demands will go unheeded. They are sure—and rightly so—that the law will back up the official. Those who are loudest in their condemnation of a specific decision, would be the most indignant if it did not carry authority and finality. In the last few years we have witnessed a world in which might, or its threat and in many instances, merely the making of a loud and threatening noise, has served as decisive rules in the international diplomatic game. The world has been affected by the chaos of getting along without an umpire.

• • •

The umpire is in the game to see that rules of that game are observed. The rules are there, not to predetermine the outcome, but to guarantee equality of opportunity. And that is precisely what is supposed to be guaranteed in the democratic way of living. In future, the umpire, in a democratic world will not only have power to enforce the rules of the international game, but he will have to know how to use that power and to have a better means of enforcing it than heretofore.

Pensioner Dies After Injuries Street Mishap

Frederick Ramsden, 85, old age pensioner, who resided at Suite 6, Picard Block, died in the Royal Alexandra Hospital at 3:30 a.m. Thursday from injuries and shock suffered in a street accident here last Saturday.

Mr. Ramsden, a resident of Edmonton for more than 30 years, walked into the side of a trolley bus at the intersection of Jasper Avenue and 100 Street at about 11:30 a.m. last Saturday.

DID NOT SEE BUS

The bus was turning the corner from Jasper Avenue to go to the South Side when the accident occurred. Mr. Ramsden told police at the time he had not seen the bus.

The bus was more than half around the turn when the accident occurred. Mr. Ramsden stepped into the side door and was knocked to the pavement. A cut above the left eyebrow and a deep gash seemed to be the chief injuries, but shock proved too much for the aged man. Mr. Ramsden's son resides in England and there are no other immediate relatives here.

FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS

Funeral services will be conducted on Saturday at 2 p.m. from Foster and McGarvey's funeral chapel by Canon A. M. Trendell. Interment will be made in the family plot in the Edmonton cemetery. Canadian Legion graveside service will be conducted, following the chapel service, by W. "Paddy" Griffin.

Whether or not an inquest will be held has not yet been decided. Chief Constable Percy Saltwaite was absent from the city Thursday.

Polio Reaches 45 Cases Now

Two new cases of infantile paralysis province to 45, according to Dr. A. C. McGugan, provincial director of communicable diseases. One of the new cases is an adult, 42 years old, a resident of Dinton, near Vulcan, southeast of Calgary and the other is a five-year-old child in Calgary.

Dr. McGugan is giving the health department in preventing and curing the disease.

Early diagnosis of suspicious cases and the avoidance of gatherings of children are two salient features stressed by Dr. McGugan as preventive measures. Any sign of drowsiness in a child should be taken cognizance of immediately and close observation maintained on its condition.

At present there is no indication that the health board can vary the order prohibiting gatherings of children under 17 years old.

Murder In Convoy—By A. W. O'Brien

YESTERDAY: The day before H.M.S. — sets sail to leave Canada for England by convoy, naval commanders are called for a conference and told that there will be a Nazi spy among the troops, and that unusual caution must be observed. Captains of the freighters that will be among the convoy are then called in and orders are issued for the sailing. The masters are offered the opportunity to withdraw from the dangerous mission, but no one speaks up.

CHAPTER TWO

A BULL-VOICED foghorn blared through the waterfront haze. From a distance two bells clanged monotonously. With khaki coat collar turned up against the knife-edged wind, an Army lieutenant stood leaning on the deck rail as the blacked-out liner gently rose and fell at the dockside.

The giant troopship had gone to sleep. The only sounds that came to his ears other than the bleak fog signals were the occasional sound of a sentry's boot on the deck or a muffled command from the general direction of the bridge.

He couldn't see more than a baseball throw in any direction, but the lieutenant knew a number of camouflaged ocean greyhounds were hugging other piers. The last trainload of troops had pulled in 24 hours ago and all men were now aboard. Endless thousands of small arm ammunition boxes had been stored in the holds. Shore leave passes had been refused. All was in readiness to sail.

Strange, thought Lieutenant Rollins, he had been terribly impatient about sailing until a few hours previously. The long months of rigorous camp training followed by a hectic embarkation leave in Montreal had climaxed in his unit's allocation to this former luxury liner, now known simply as "T 9." That was three days ago and the letdown after all the activity and excitement had been terrific. But things were definitely picking up. The reason was a blond, certainly not more than 24, slightly taller than average, but eminently suitable for a six-foot officer.

Lieutenant Rollins found himself grinning in the darkness. The girl was evidently of the serious-minded type, but that dimple in her left cheek held interesting possibilities. He had noticed it when she was only half-way up the gangplank and he was trying to make out the color of her eyes when she had looked at him squarely.

He had promptly raised a gloved hand to his service cap in an informal salute and added a wide smile for good measure. She gave him a short fleeting smile in return but it was a somewhat disinterested one.

She stepped briskly from the gangplank and onto "B" deck then marched along with the others to the stairway leading up to "A" deck. Lieutenant Rollins' eyes followed her. She was undoubtedly the prettiest of the 47 nursing sisters bound for a Canadian hospital in England. The amazing thing about it all was he knew he had met that girl somewhere before. It was quite unthinkable, though, that he approach her, bow deeply, and say:

"Pardon me, Sister, but haven't we met somewhere?"

She would speak to him, of course. Would tell him a few casual facts about herself. He could name a few places he had been. She might suggest a few also. Then, in an awkward sort of way, he'd be forced to shrug, laugh lightly and give up. That would never do. He would bring up the previous meeting only after they were on cozy terms.

"Lieutenant Rollins, sir!"

"Yes, I'm Mr. Rollins."

"The O. C. Troops would like you to come to his quarters immediately, sir."

• • •

Lieutenant Rollins felt his way through the darkness to the nearest entrance. He found the door handle and tugged it open to meet even inkier darkness. He reached forward and pushed aside the heavy curtain so placed to prevent light from showing when the door was opened. For a moment he blinked into the corridor lights, then quickly strode down to the suite at the far end. Over it hung a sign, "O.C. Troops."

He knocked twice.

"Come in!"

Colonel L. S. Stephenson, M.C., was seated before a desk. He looked absently at the young officer for a moment.

"Oh yes, Lieutenant. I merely wanted to point out that it is after midnight and unless I am mistaken there are sounds generally associated with singing coming from the direction of the bar. As orderly officer," he paused suggestively, "I must ask you to attend to the matter immediately.

"You will be held accountable for an infraction of lights-out regulations during your period on duty tonight and, by the way, I also have an underlined order to the effect that orderly officers are to report any unusual incident, no matter how slight, that comes within their ambit or the notice of the sentries."

A captain grinned from a stool at the bar.

"Okay, Gregory, and I'll bring along a Scotch in case you're chilly when you come off watch at two."

Rollins winked his thanks. He and Captain Sydney Yees had been friends since the old rugby days at university. In fact, Syd recommended him for his commission with the Royal Westmount Regiment after he had obtained his Officers Training Course Certificate "A."

Back out on deck it seemed increasingly chilly and lonely. Rollins grumbled to himself as he started another long tour of the ship to check on the sentries. All these precautions by the Old Man seemed exaggerated, with the ship still beside a dock that was heavily patrolled by military and Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

• • •

It was about 12:30 when he entered the orderly room on the aft deck. He examined the orders for the next day and grinned widely. Lieutenant Barry Miley was booked as orderly officer and, judging from his exuberation when the bar closed, it would be a painful session.

Suddenly, he and the sergeant working at the desk looked up at one another. They had both heard the noise—a low but unmistakable throb running through the ship. The sergeant jumped to his feet.

"It's the engines, sir. We must be on our way!"

The lieutenant sh-h-hed him. "Take it easy, Sergeant. It will take hours before we . . ."

The door opened and a sentry entered.

"Lieut. Rollins—quick! I was just on my way here a few seconds ago when I spotted two small flashes, followed by a third a moment later on 'A' deck—seemed to be directly above the main lounge on the port side, I . . ."

Rollins was hurrying out. "Don't follow me. I'm going to pay surprising whoever is up there!"

He slipped through the door and ran on his toes across an open stretch of deck to the port side.

There was no light showing on "A" deck. Slowly he made his way up the steel companionway and lay flat on the top steps so that his eyes cleared the deck level.

For a few seconds the whole deck seemed to be immersed in one big, black shadow. Then things took shape. He could make out the deck chairs stacked against the wall a few feet up. Beyond that there was a large emergency raft. In front of the raft . . . Did that shadow move?

The lieutenant felt his eyes burning with the effort. He was concentrating every ounce of vision on that shadow. Yes, it has moved. It was coming in his direction, seemingly hugging the dark portion of the deck close to the wall.

Rollins reached back gingerly and unbuttoned his service holster. Noiselessly he drew the powerful .45.

The shadow was no more than 10 yards away now.

"Halt where you are!" he bit out the command in low even tones, "and lift your hands—high!"

You will notice the double on today's hand is very close, and fine defensive play was needed to defeat the contract one trick.

South won the opening lead with the ten of hearts and returned a diamond. The jack forced the ace, and North led the other heart. South won with the queen and shifted to the ace of clubs, followed by the seven. North took his queen of clubs and then laid down the king.

South now made a brilliant play by trumping the king of clubs. He wanted an entry to lead the ace of hearts. This lead assured North of three trick, which was needed to set the contract.

ALL-OUT WAR ON NAZIS ASKED

Allied Strategists Urging Britain Invade Continent

By DREW MIDDLETON

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Unofficial British, Polish and Norwegian strategists urged anew today a British invasion of the continent.

Military leaders were called upon for all-out war against the Nazis. Current Royal Air Force bombings of Germany and occupied territories were deemed insufficient by these sources.

Frank Owen, editor of Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard, demanded "a second front and not only in the air," in a signed editorial. Mr. Owen suggested a British offensive against Italy, long favored by some military sources as the spot where the axis could be hit hardest.

Some Polish and Norwegian military men have urged Britain to attempt landings at a number of points along the European coastline in an effort to find the weakest point in German defences.

Once a weak spot were found, these men believe, enough British and Allied forces could be landed to overcome local resistance to dig in and open a new front.

Most of these men believe R.A.F. bombings have smashed German communications and therefore the Germans would find it difficult to concentrate enough troops to counter a British invasion at any one point.

NORWAY FAVORED

Favored particularly by Poles and Norwegians is a landing in Norway north of Narvik. They offer three reasons for such a landing:

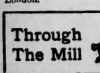

1—Norwegian troops in Britain are said to be better equipped to fight in that territory and they could be helped by Scots and Poles trained in mountain fighting.

2—Once a landing has been made, a corridor would be opened through Finland to Murmansk, Russia, cutting off the Finnish port of Petsamo. Over this corridor troops and supplies could be moved to bolster the Red armies in the north, it was said.

If British army heads have contemplated an invasion of the French coast, unofficial observers agree there have been no signs of it in London.

Through The Mill

"Case of the Careening Cupid," or "The Battle For the Blanket," are alternative titles for the struggle in a city rooming house under review in police court Thursday.

• • •

The woman rooming housekeeper complained that accused, a middle-aged man, had attempted to steal a blanket while visiting the room of a "friend" of her establishment. She told the court accused had beaten her with a big stick when she tried to stop him leaving the premises, and had followed up the stick attack by hurling a cuspidor at her. The police matron testified that the aim of accused must have been pretty good, because the woman had some pretty nasty looking bruises and welts in great profusion over her anatomy.

The magistrate found the man guilty of assault and attempted theft of the blanket. On the assault charge he imposed a fine of $15 and costs with the option of 30 days in jail, and for attempted theft a $10 fine with the option of 14 days in jail.

Odessa Goal Of Nazi Drive

Nippon Paper Warns Against Aid To Russia

TOKYO, Aug. 21—(AP)—Kokumin, which almost daily expresses the viewpoint of the more radical Japanese militarists, said today "Japan as the stabilizing power in East Asia absolutely cannot remain indifferent" if Vladivostok becomes the pivot of British-American assistance to Russia.

(Calling Vladivostok a "Fuse which at any time may set off an American-Japanese war," the official Central Daily News in Chungking declared: "We believe an American-Japanese war is inevitable. The question now is only when it breaks out, and whether it is to be a declared or an undeclared war."

(The organ said Japan would attempt by every means to prevent American supplies from reaching Vladivostok. The Central Daily News urged the United States not to be bluffed into withdrawing aid to Russia.)

Other Japanese papers in their news columns focussed attention on Thailand, charging "British machinations" were being attempted. Nichi Nichi and Asahi splashed dispatches from Bangkok which reported British and American "intrigues, propaganda and intimidation."

(Kokumin's article said the United States undoubtedly would try to secure air bases in the long Kamchatka Peninsula and maritime provinces of Russia facing Japan on the north and west.)

Dominions Must Be Represented In War Parleys

LONDON, Aug. 21—(CP)—Arrival in London of Prime Minister Mackenzie King today touched off a discussion in the afternoon press of how the dominions can best be represented in the Empire's war councils.

The Evening News said representation of the dominions in the United Kingdom war cabinet is a problem which must be solved.

"Is there not some way by which the dominions can appoint plenipotentiaries in this country, men of higher authority than a high commissioner, men free to be in constant consultation with the war cabinet?" asked the Evening News.

WELCOME CONFERENCE

The Star recalled Prime Minister Churchill had said he would welcome an Imperial conference at the opportune time and said Mr. King's arrival brought the prospect nearer. The paper remarked that Prime Minister Peter Fraser of New Zealand is here, Australia is discussing a visit by Prime Minister R. G. Menzies, and that the visit to the middle east front of Prime Minister Jan Smuts of South Africa seemed to show a visit to Britain by him was not impossible.

"We need the Empire's best minds with us, first in winning the war and then in facing the great world-wide task of reconstruction which will follow victory," the Star declared.

Stoppages War Work Said Few

GENEVA PARK, Aug. 21—(CP)—Thomas Moore, president of the trades and Labor Congress, Ottawa, said here last night that "the stoppages of work on war production have been few," and added that by far the largest number of strikes or lockouts that have occurred have been caused because of obstinate refusal of employers and government to permit workers to organize and negotiate agreements.

In addressing the Canadian Institute on public affairs Mr. Moore said delays in operating the industrial disputes act was the second major cause of disputes. This, he said, compelled "workers to continue under wrong conditions while delaying giving them the use of the machinery to adjust and correct their grievances."

He added "it is only fair to say here that the labor department conciliation branch is tremendously understaffed."

Nazis Say Key Cities Captured Near Leningrad

BERLIN, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The German high command today claimed three key cities in the main Leningrad defence ring—Novgorod, Kingisepp and Narva—have been captured in a German drive which is within 75 miles of Russia's second city.

Leningrad now is menaced from three sides—north, west and south.

ON WESTERN SECTOR

Kingisepp and Narva are on the Germans' western sector. Narva, which had been regarded as an important Russian defence position on the land bridge between the Gulf of Finland and Lake Peipus, is 81 miles southwest of Leningrad.

Kingisepp, farther east, is 75 miles away and across the Estonian border from Narva in Russia proper. Novgorod, where the Russians have put up particularly stubborn resistance, is on the southern rim of the Red Army's defence are near Lake Ilmen, about 100 miles from Leningrad.

"In the southern Ukraine," it said, "units of the field S.S. took the harbor and industrial town of Kherson on the mouth of the Dnieper. . . .

MORE CLAIMS

"Infantry, motorized and armored divisions, in collaboration with the air force, have defeated, destroyed or taken prisoner parts of 17 infantry, five cavalry, two armored and one motorized division as well as two brigades of air-borne troops which came to the assistance of the foot soldiers.

"The enemy's bloody losses are extremely severe. The number of prisoners increased to roughly 84,000. The booty in guns increased to 848.

Between Lakes Ilmen and Peipus in fierce day-long fighting an extremely stubbornly defence position, strongly fortified by the enemy, was penetrated. The cities of Novgorod, Kingisepp and Narva were taken."

By driving to Kherson, on the west bank of the Dnieper at one of the principal crossings of the river which is 1,000 miles wide there, the Germans claimed to have isolated Odessa to the west. Bitter fighting still was being waged for that besieged Black sea port.
